Greatest Bomber Force Yet Smashes Dortmund's Plants

City Is Plastered With 1,500 Tons Of Blockbusters—Thirty Planes Lost

LONDON, May 5 (CP).—Dortmund, only an incidental target of previous R.A.F. missions, received a concentrated bashing last night by the largest force of four-engine bombers ever sent out on a war mission.

R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. heavyweight bombers attacked the German industrial city with 1,500 tons of blockbuster explosive, heaping on Dortmund approximately the weight of destruction dumped on Cologne by more than 1,000 planes nearly a year ago.

The Air Ministry described the raid as "very heavy." Thirty planes were lost, seven of them Canadian. Sgt. Bob Bradley, member of an R.A.F. Lancaster crew, said Dortmund was "raging like an inferno" when the bombers left.

Size of the attacking force was not announced.

TELL OF BIG EXPLOSIONS

Participants told of "terrific" explosions and fires caused by the cascade of four-ton and two-ton blockbusters and tens of thousands of incendiaries dropped on the tool-making and war industrial city of half a million population, which is a neighbor of bombed-out Essen and a canal cross-roads of the blasted Ruhr. They said the raid was the heaviest of the year.

"Nothing could have survived those flames," said Pilot Officer William Maxwell, of Leamington, Ont. "The destruction was bigger than any of us had ever seen before."

An R.A.F. spokesman said the aerial offensive was keeping four out of five German night fighters pinned down on the defence of Europe and that Goering's air force was outnumbered on the three main fronts—Russia, Africa and Europe—and has lost the battle of production as well.

AIMED AT FORMER AUTO PLANTS

It was disclosed that the American heavy bombers in their attack yesterday on Antwerp were aiming at the former Ford and General

Earl of Athlone Sees Seattle Effort

SEATTLE, May 5 (AP).—The Earl of Athlone told a throng at Victory Square today that he has been "tremendously impressed" with what he had seen during his two-day visit in Seattle and the adjacent Puget Sound area.

"The vigor and enthusiasm of your war effort are superb examples of the way in which the pioneer spirit of the West can be turned to preserve the cause of freedom," the Governor-General said. "Victory will be ours, though a long and fierce conflict lies ahead."

He and his wife, Princess Alice, visited the Boeing Aircraft Company during the morning and watched all phases of bomber production. Then they toured the city via the Lake Washington pontoon bridge, the University of Washington campus and the city centre. Later they visited the Pacific Car & Foundry plant and attended a formal dinner.

Princess Alice, speaking at Victory Square, stressed how Canada and the United States are "intimately bound together in one gigantic effort to support our fighting men and one another until we have utterly defeated our monstrous three-headed enemy."

The Royal couple leaves for Portland tomorrow.

They had been scheduled to attend the season's opening Pacific Coast League baseball game in Seattle this afternoon, but went to the car and foundry plant, to witness tank production, after the game was postponed.

Hoarder Paying Severe Penalty

OTTAWA, May 5 (CP).—A fine of $1,500 imposed on a resident of Paradise Hill, Sask., who was convicted of hoarding sugar, tea, coffee and other household goods was the highest penalty among the seventy-six prosecutions reported by the enforcement administration of the Prices Board for the week ended April 20.

Bomb Ships At Base in New Guinea

Explosions and Fires Started

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, May 6 (Thursday) (CP).—A small formation of four-motored bombers wrecked a 5,000-ton cargo ship and damaged two 500-ton vessels in a raid late Tuesday afternoon on Japan's North New Guinea feeder base at Wewak.

The details were disclosed today in the noon Allied communique.

The Japanese tried unsuccessfully to drive off the raiders with fighter planes and ack-ack. One of the enemy interceptors was damaged.

The aerial action was the heaviest directed at shipping in the vicinity of Wewak, on the North New Guinea coast 450 miles northwest of the Allied base of Port Moresby, since a convoy sought to land supplies there April 18. In that action, two merchantmen were sunk, two rendered unseaworthy and two were forced to flee with their escort of three warships.

Heavy bombs fell in the town and along the waterfront, causing explosions and fires. The two damaged ships were near the bombed jetties.

The Japanese plane downed was one of nine which rose to challenge the small formation of bombers. Heavy anti-aircraft fire also was encountered but all the Allied bombers got back to base.

The Wewak raid was the only activity reported in the sector northeast of Australia.

To the northwest, a medium bomber attacked the area of Timika, Dutch New Guinea.

Other medium bombers raided Toeal on the Kai Islands, starting fires in the barracks and wharf area.

Deny Easter Island Taken

SANTIAGO, Chile, May 5 (AP).—Defence Minister Alfredo Duhalde described today as "without foundation" a Paris radio report that the United States had occupied Chilean Easter Island in the South Pacific.

The German-controlled Paris radio reported last night that the occupation had been made with Chilean consent and said it had given the United States an "important air and naval base."

There was no immediate comment from Washington.

Mussolini Still Talks Brave War

NEW YORK, May 5 (AP).—Mussolini in a brief address from the balcony of Palazzo Venezia in Rome asserted today that Italians were incurably afflicted with "the African illness" and surely would return to Africa.

"All the efforts of the nation, he said, were bent toward victory.

His address, reported by the Rome radio in a broadcast recorded by The Associated Press, was made in the course of a demonstration in the square before the Palazzo Venezia.

Il Duce recalled that it was on May 5, 1936, that he announced the creation of the empire after the fall of Ethiopia.

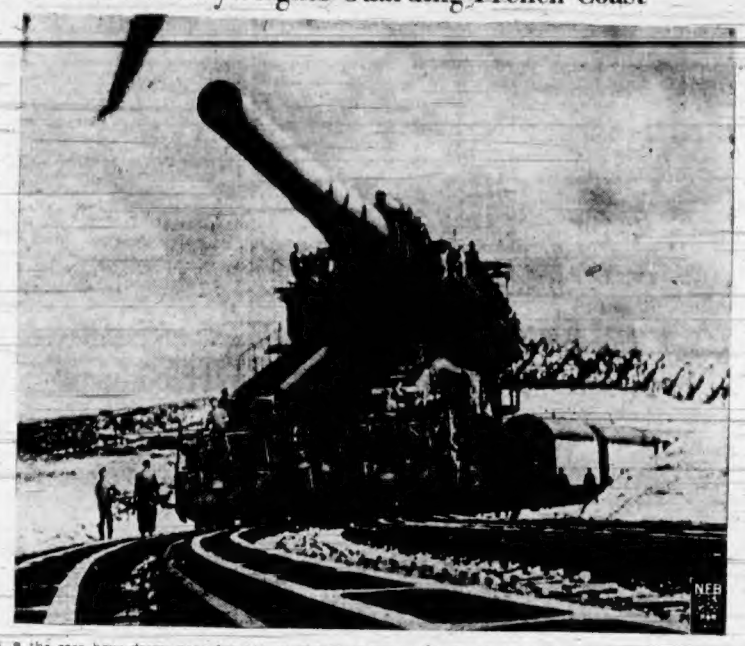
Crash in Idaho

SODA SPRINGS, Idaho, May 5 (AP).—A four-engined army bomber crashed in the mountains two miles east of here tonight.

John Allis, manager of the Pryor Hotel at Soda Springs, said three bodies had been recovered from the plane and efforts were being made to locate remaining crew members.

Unofficial information received by army air base officials at Pocatello indicate the plane may have been from the Wendover, Utah, field. There was no confirmation, however.

One of the Heavyweights Guarding French Coast



As the zero hour draws near for a United Nations' invasion of Europe, the men who plan it are under no delusion concerning the difficulties which must be overcome by our fighting men. Facing the English Channel along the coast of France the Nazis have built one of the most powerful systems of fortifications in the world — the Schnelle Line. It is believed to mount one gun for every twenty yards of coast and to cover every landing point by fire from three directions. One of its largest pieces of artillery is shown here. The picture is from the National Film Board's "Invasion of Europe," which sizes up the possibilities of attack against various points of the fortress the Germans have built around Europe.

Soviets Now Only Nine Miles From Novorossisk

Kill 7,000 Germans and Capture Rail Junction in Drive on Seaport

LONDON, May 6 (Thursday) (AP).—The Red Army is engaged in continued violent fighting with the bitterly-resisting Germans northeast of Novorossisk, where the Russians have smashed to within nine miles of the Black Sea port in bloody fighting, the Soviet noon communique announced today.

Several more enemy strongpoints were captured in the night's fighting, declared the war bulletin, which was recorded by the Soviet radio monitor from a Moscow broadcast.

"The German troops suffered heavy losses in manpower and equipment," the Russians said. "In one sector alone about 400 German dead were left on the battlefield."

The midnight communique had told of the Russian capture of Krymskaya and nine other towns in the Lower Kuban valley, and asserted that 7,000 Germans had died in resisting the Soviet advance into the Krymskaya rail junction.

One of the towns captured was Neberdjayevskaya, only nine miles northeast of Novorossisk.

The Kuban valley furnished the most lively activity, both on the ground and aloft. There were no important changes on other fronts, the Russians declared.

About 200 Germans were killed and six enemy artillery batteries were knocked out on the Smolensk front, and two German planes were shot down by Red Army aviators, the noon communique said.

The midnight communique, recorded by the Soviet monitor, said the Russians also captured eighty guns, 220 machine guns and other war material in their power drive to oust remaining Axis forces clinging to the Caucasus.

Smashing German positions on a fifteen-mile-wide front, the Red Army troops were supported by

Cabinet War Committee in Long Session

OTTAWA, May 5 (CP). — Prime Minister Mackenzie King and his colleagues who are members of the Cabinet War Committee were in session the greater part of today.

A spokesman at the Prime Minister's office said there would be no announcement from that quarter as a result of the long meeting.

It is expected a meeting of the full Cabinet Council will be held tomorrow before the House of Commons resumes sittings after the fortnight's Easter recess.

Appointment of six more Parliamentary assistants before the House resumes was expected in view of the fact that, at Mr. King's request, the House hurried through the necessary legislation to appoint ten of these officials before adjournment. Four were appointed several days ago.

Fourteen Killed In Plane Crash

WASHINGTON, May 5 (AP).—Fourteen persons were killed in the plane crash in Iceland in which Lt.-Gen. Frank M. Andrews, commanding general of United States Army troops in the European theatre, lost his life, the War Department announced today.

In addition to Andrews and Bishop Adna W. Leonard, of the Methodist Church, who was making a tour of the war zones, the victims included Brig.-Gen. Charles H. Barth, thirty-nine, chief of staff to Andrews, and Col. Morrow Crum, former New York and Chicago newspaperman who was public relations officer at Andrews' headquarters.

There was one survivor, Staff Sgt. George A. Eisel. He was injured but not seriously.

Others killed were:

Chaplain (Colonel) Frank L. Miller, chief of the plans and training division in the office of the chief of chaplains; Lt.-Col. Fred A. Chapman, Maj. Theodore C. Todmad, Chaplain (Major) Robert H. Humphrey, Capt. Joseph T. Johnson, Capt. Robert H. Shannon, Capt. James E. Gott, Sgt. Lloyd C. Wier, Sgt. Kenneth A. Jeffers, Sgt. Paul H. McQueen.

Case Dismissed

EDMONTON, May 5 (CP).—Police Court Magistrate A. I. Millar today dismissed a charge against an Edmonton cafe proprietor in a test case to determine the right of Canadian citizens to have in their possession American cigarettes on which Canadian excise tax had not been paid. The magistrate based his ruling on a Dominion order in council which said that American troops coming into Canada could have all their supplies brought into the Dominion duty-free.

Polish Strength Russia's Desire

NEW YORK, May 6 (Thursday) (AP).—Premier Stalin of Russia, in a letter to The New York Times' correspondent in Moscow, states that Russia wishes to see a strong and independent Poland established after Hitler's defeat, and that, if Poland desires, the Soviet Union would enter a postwar alliance of mutual assistance against Germany. Written a little more than a week after Russia broke off relations with Poland, Stalin's letter yesterday was in reply to questions submitted by The Times' correspondent, Ralph Parker.

April Losses To U-Boats Off by Half

Battle of Atlantic Better, Davis Says

WASHINGTON, May 5 (AP).—The perilous Battle of the Atlantic went well for the United Nations in April, Elmer Davis, war information director, told reporters today, but he cautioned against over-optimism based on a single month.

Compared with March, which he called a bad month, April losses to submarines were down more than one-half, Davis said. He added that March losses were exceeded in several months last year.

Because of "many factors," Davis said, the favorable showing in April may not be maintained in succeeding months. He listed luck and the skill of enemy submarine commanders as important factors in the extent of losses.

It will be several months, Davis remarked, before the full weight of the destroyer-escort construction programme can be brought to bear against underseas raiders.

Davis described as "considerably exaggerated" the claim of the German Navy that it sank sixty-three British and American merchant vessels, aggregating 423,000 gross tons, in April.

VISIT OTTAWA

OTTAWA, May 5 (CP).—Premier W. J. Patterson of Saskatchewan and his deputy provincial treasurer, Thomas Lax, were in Ottawa today to consult Government officials on what Mr. Patterson said were "odds and ends of business." Mr. Patterson had a conference with Agriculture Minister Gardiner, who returned from Western Canada this morning, and with some of the permanent Government officials before leaving late tonight for Toronto.

Wanted, 10,000 Stalwarts!

IN the Atlantic-Pacific contest for the Fourth Victory Loan pennant in the inter-city race, Greater Halifax is half a lap ahead. What Greater Victoria needs now is to hear from 10,000 fighting Canadians who have not yet subscribed. It will take all of 10,000 subscriptions, each of $150 or better, to catch up to that lead, and hold our place in the race. That can be done. It will be done if citizens who have not already acted will now do their part. Every bond benefits the individual who buys it. Every bond helps Canada at home and abroad, immediately. Every bond taken here will be a strong pull in this fighting challenge between two of the oldest ports in the Dominion. Halifax is going great guns. Come on, Victoria, with horse, foot and artillery. The challenge is now.

Allied Troops Within Ten Miles of Bizerte as Three Columns Converge on Base

German Hold in Africa Now Matter of New Men, Supplies

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NORTH AFRICA, May 5 (AP).—American and French troops have reached a point only ten miles from Bizerte, while another American column swinging southeast from Mateur was reported tonight to be threatening to turn German positions, which have been holding up the British First Army twenty miles west of Tunis.

Three Allied columns were converging on Bizerte in Northern Tunisia. A French column reached Cap Koran, ten miles west of Bizerte and at the edge of a plain leading to that city. One American column pushing along the northern edge of Lake Achkel below Bizerte repulsed a German counter-attack at Djebel Cheniti, and another American column driving northeastward from Mateur was only five miles short of Ferryville.

Big Allied guns now can shell both Ferryville and Bizerte.

Pushing out of the captured highway hub of Mateur the Americans were reported to have made a five-mile gain east of that city, and to the southeast repulsed another light enemy counter-attack launched from Djebel Makna, a ridge on the east side of the River Tine.

AMERICAN THRUST THREATENS GERMANS

It was this latter American thrust aimed at Tebourba, eighteen miles west of Tunis and about the same distance southeast of Mateur, that was threatening to outflank the Germans who have been holding up the First Army east of Medjez-el-Bab.

Dispatches said that American patrols already had taken Eddekhila, only six miles west of Tebourba and the British First Army is six miles southwest of Tebourba. A junction of the two forces would facilitate a direct smash at Tunis.

The stubbornness of the German defenders opposing the First Army and the Eighth Army in the south suggested the Axis Command was bent on keeping the way open into the northeastern tip of Tunisia, the Cape Bon area, for a final stand.

The Germans hurled thirty tanks against the First Army in a counter-attack yesterday east of Medjez-el-Bab, but today's communique said twelve of them were destroyed, including two sixty-ton Tigers. The enemy's infantry waves also were broken and thrown back.

British Tommies then were said to have gained ground in their effort to take the last hill barring them from swarming onto the plain leading to Tunis.

BRITISH STEADILY SAPPING STRENGTH

Although both sides have suffered heavily in this area between Medjez-el-Bab and Pont du Fahs, the First Army steadily has been sapping Nazi strength. It was announced today that British troops had taken 5,000 prisoners, 4,000 of them Germans, since April 21, the LONDON, May 5.—Abandonment of Mateur by the retreating Germans who say they have destroyed all military stores there, says The Times' military correspondent, shows that the enemy's defences have been weakened in the north and that he is falling back to new lines nearer Bizerte. The British First Army around Mejez El Bab undoubtedly has helped the United States troops, who have been pressing the Germans back slowly for the past ten days.

The loss of Mateur deprives the Axis of the railway between Tunis and Bizerte and leaves them only a single road for traffic.

If the northern Germans can now be cut off, the final phase of operations must be that of two separated enemy forces to be dealt with in turn.

From Algiers The Times' correspondent reports that French forces first noticed the German withdrawal from Mateur. Captured documents indicate some of the Nazi troops have been encouraged by non-commissioned officers to surrender, as the struggle is hopeless.

An army order from German Battalion Headquarters threatens heavy punishment for wives and families in Germany of any soldiers who give themselves up. Commanders in the field are ordered to use "brutal measures" to keep their men fighting. It is known that some Nazis already refer to Tunis as "Tunisgrad," or "Tunkirk," alluding to Stalingrad and Dunkirk as indicative of their probable fate.

Attacks on Lampedusa Island are maintained by Royal Air Force fighter-bombers from Malta.

The Russians have won back Krymskaya, in Kuban, a success which will facilitate further operations for throwing the Germans out of Novorossisk. The climax of five days of fierce fighting secures an important railway junction for the Red Army.

Along the rest of the Eastern Front preparations for offensives continue on both sides, and the chairman of the Leningrad Soviet says the enemy has not yet renounced his plan for capturing Leningrad. More battles lie ahead of the defenders, he says.

Guerrilla war against the Nazis has recently been intensified on this front. Both the Luftwaffe and Red Air Force maintain unceasing attacks on each other's base towns and communications in many areas. Red Star continued to emphasize the imminence of a fresh big-scale battle. Much prominence is now given by the Soviet Press to the arrival in Russia of more war equipment from Britain.

Chances of a meeting between Generals Giraud and de Gaulle now are brighter, says The Times' diplomatic correspondent. General Giraud, however, does not want a meeting in Algiers, presumably because some of the Fighting French there wish to give General de Gaulle a great popular welcome. This, suggests General Giraud's advisers, might lead to disorders. It is a small point to be allowed to stand in the way, says The Times' correspondent, who thinks an agreement may be reached on it in the next few days.

Biggest Day Of Loan for B.C.-Yukon

VANCOUVER, May 5 (CP).—Total received from all sources in British Columbia-Yukon's Fourth Victory Loan up to Wednesday stood at $63,491,000. Wednesday was the biggest day of the loan. More applications from the general public were recorded and amount of applications received from general public was greater than any other day in this loan.

Vancouver City holds her lead over all divisions with 83 per cent of quota.

Dawson-Mayo still heads all units with 166 per cent.

Churchill Will Make Statement

LONDON, May 5 (CP).—It was announced in the House of Commons today that Prime Minister Churchill will make a statement on the war, including a report on operations in Burma, before the Whitsuntide recess. The date of the recess was not disclosed, but Whitsunday is June 13.

Westerners Aroused by New Plans

Oppose Return of Japanese in Uniform

WASHINGTON, May 5 (AP).—West Coast Congressmen, aroused by advices that Japanese-American soldiers in uniform would be permitted to return to restricted areas of the Pacific Coast on furlough, mustered their forces tonight to oppose such permission.

Californians appointed Representative Costello (Democrat, California) chairman of a committee to consult with the War Department on its plan.

House members from California, Washington and Oregon declared their decision to move for swift action on a resolution (House of Representatives, 132) by Representative Jackson (Democrat, Washington) for a five-man committee to investigate the whole Japanese problem and formulate a policy for handling the Japanese question during and after the war.

Today's developments came after Assistant Secretary of War McCloy had advised Representative Poulson (Republican, California) that it was the War Department's feeling that Japanese-American soldiers could not be called upon "to fight in combat against the enemy without at the same time extending to them the privileges that all other American soldiers have."

DOES NOT THINK DEWITT TO BE MOVED

Costello said he did not believe that Lieut.-Gen. John L. Dewitt, commanding general of the West Coast, who had opposed return of any Japanese to the coastal areas, would be transferred although other Californians had expressed fear that Dewitt would be transferred as the first move to return Japanese to the Coast.

Other members of Costello's committee are Representative Engle-bright (Republican), Izac (Democrat), Anderson (Republican) and Tolan (Democrat).

West Coast Congressmen warned the House today they feared racial riots and killings if the Japanese

New Aircraft Demonstrated To Churchill

LONDON, May 6 (Thursday) (CP).—The Daily Express said today that Prime Minister Churchill recently visited a closely-guarded airfield to inspect test models of new secret R.A.F. aircraft which will be placed in Britain's new battle fleet of the air.

The newspaper said some of the new planes are of revolutionary design and are powered with engines hitherto unknown to the public and unfamiliar even in the aircraft industry generally.

The Prime Minister, accompanied by scientists, production experts and service chiefs, was reported to have asked about the planes' flying characteristics and possibilities of their mass production and then to have watched them fly through a series of stunts previously believed impossible.

The Express said the test models included heavy and medium bombers, reconnaissance and fighter aircraft, some of them adaptable to two or three types of duty.

TOJO IN MANILA

NEW YORK, May 6 (Thursday) (AP).—Premier Hideki Tojo of Japan arrived in Manila today on a military inspection trip, the Tokio radio reported in a broadcast. The broadcast, recorded by The Associated Press, said Tojo also planned to have "a frank exchange of views" with Jorge Vargas, chairman of the Philippines executive commission. The nearby American fortress of Corregidor fell to the Japanese a year ago.

Enemy-Held Bases Given Heavy Blow

CHUNGKING, May 5 (AP).—The 14th United States Army Air Force—strengthened by newly-arrived four-engined bombers which can attack Japan itself — struck its heaviest blow of the war yesterday by pounding Japanese military installations on Hainan Island off the southern tip of China, and in the Hanoi-Haiphong area of Northern French Indo-China.

"The mission was the heaviest bombing and strafing raid of the war against Japanese installations from China-held bases," said the communique from Lt.-Gen. Joseph W. Stillwell's headquarters. "All our planes engaged in this operation are accounted for."

The four-engined bombers were reported by their commander to have "pretty nearly wiped out" the airport at Samah, on the southern tip of Hainan Island, which the Japanese had converted into a powerful base. The operation was part of the "on-to-Tokio" plans of Maj.-Gen. Claire L. Chennault's American and Chinese airmen.

Many fires were observed after the bombings. The fighter pilots strafed the areas, and en route home also destroyed two locomotives and attacked a supply train.

Chinese pilots attached to the 14th Air Force participated in the raids.

The Tokio radio in a broadcast heard in London reported that American planes had made two raids Wednesday on targets in Northern Indo-China, indicating a continuance of the United States attacks.

Mayor Andrew McGavin Suggests That Greater Victoria District Be Created

Believes One Council, One Police Force Only Should Operate Here

"AN annual conference such as this should be held by the city, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt. Our problems are separate, but perhaps many of them could be solved during a round table discussion," Mayor Andrew McGavin declared during the annual meeting of Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee at Royal Oak yesterday afternoon.

"For instance, Esquimalt might be [illegible] better-off if taken over entirely by the Federal Government. There should be a Greater Victoria with one council one police force and one fire department."

"I think the committee should meet twice a year and invite Oak Bay and Esquimalt to send delegates," Reeve E. C. Warren, the chairman, replied.

"I can see the folly of overlapping services in the city and three municipalities," Mayor McGavin continued. "Saanich must solve the problems of farmers. We must get to understand each other better," he concluded.

"There is no doubt joint problems of the city and municipalities should be thoroughly discussed at a friendly gathering such as this. The city and Alderman John A. Worthington remarked.

"Now, more than ever, is the time to remember the old adage 'love thy neighbor.' The war has brought us even closer together," Alderman Edward Williams stated.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED FOR CURRENT YEAR

Reeve Warren was re-elected chairman of the committee for the current year. W. A. Greene was asked to continue as treasurer, and John Baxter, as secretary.

Councillor J. L. Hobbs, Alderman Edward Williams and H. L. Blakeney, Saanich public works superintendent, were asked to investigate a suggestion that trees be cut for firewood at Gorge Park. Reeve Warren, Alderman D. D. McTavish, and Councillors L. C. Hagan and John Oliver thought the trees were too small for the purpose.

A letter from the Prospect Lake Parent-Teacher Association recommending that bathing facilities be improved at the lake was referred to the Saanich Council.

Estimates passed by the committee included Benvenuto Avenue, cutting grass and maintenance of trees, $125; Beaver Lake, repairs to ball park and conveniences and dragging weeds in the lake, $150; Cadboro Bay, water service at the north end and caretaker and general maintenance, $125; Cordova Bay, attendant, $150; northwest corner of Elk Lake, general maintenance, $150; Gorge Park, lifeguard and repairs, $100; Island View Beach, new conveniences and maintenance, $200; Mount Tolmie Park, general maintenance, $50; Mount Douglas Park, general maintenance, $600; Shelbourne Street, general maintenance, $98.92; Verdier Park, general maintenance, $150; general expenses, $150, and contingencies, $125.

Lord Hewart Passes Away

TOTTERIDGE, Hertfordshire, England, May 5 (CP).—Lord Hewart, seventy-three, former Lord Chief Justice of England, died at his home today after an illness of several months.

Lord Hewart served as Lord Chief Justice for eighteen and one-half years, from 1922 to 1940, and was for more than a quarter century one of the leading British legal personalities.

He was created Viscount Hewart of Bury upon his retirement from his high office, having been Baron Hewart since 1922. These titles now pass to his son, Hugh Vaughan Hewart.

A former Cabinet Minister, he attended the Peace Conference of Versailles in 1919 as British Attorney-General and two years later was one of the British signatories of the Irish treaty which created the Irish Free State.

He visited Canada in 1927 as guest of the Canadian Bar Association and while in Toronto received an honorary degree from the University of Toronto.

U.S. Sends Much Help To Russia

Thousands of Planes, Million Tons of Food

WASHINGTON, May 5 (AP).—The United States has sent Russia "several thousand planes," "many tens of thousands" of trucks, jeeps and other military vehicles, and more than 1,000,000 tons of foodstuffs.

This was disclosed today by Lend-Lease Administrator Edward R. Stettinius in his most detailed report on the extent of United States assistance to Russia.

In the first three months of 1943 shipments were 35 per cent greater than in the preceding quarter, and more than twice the total shipped in the corresponding period of 1942.

The overwhelmingn majority of lend-lease shipments have reached Russia, Stettinius said, adding that losses were suffered principally on the North Russian route, and a large proportion of the supplies are moving by the Persian Gulf route.

The lend-lease administrator reported that among other items sent to Russia were:

Thousands of tons of steel and armor plate, copper, brass, aluminum, zinc, TNT, Toluol and other chemicals, large quantities of railroad rail, signal and other communications equipment, and smaller quantities of electric furnaces, presses, forging hammers and other machine tools.

FOOD HOLDS TOP PRIORITY

Along with aircraft and motor vehicles, food shipments now hold the top priority, Stettinius said. Most lend-lease shipments of dehydrated vegetables are going to Russia along with wheat flour, sugar, canned meats, dried peas and beans, lard and vegetable oils. So that the Russians may produce food in newly developed agricultural areas, the United States also has shipped 8,000 tons of seeds.

Divided as to value, shipments include: Ordnance, $280,891,000; aircraft, $328,975,000; tanks, $179,820,000; motor vehicles, $229,822,000; watercraft $27,888,000; industrial products, $461,348,000, and agricultural products, $316,733,000.

Stettinius reported that lend-lease shipments to all countries totaled $7,104,731,000 since the beginning of lend-lease. In addition, planes ferried by air and lend-lease ships sailed away under their own power had a value of $675,000,000.

Canada pays cash for all supplies bought in the United States and alone among the United Nations does not receive lend-lease aid.

Smash Dortmund

Motors plants which had been engaged in producing vehicles for their Axis captors. All the bombers and the American fighter escort—participating in their first big fighter operational job over Europe—returned safely. The size of the United States force was not announced, but the Germans said forty-five bombers took part.

In a smaller stab into the Continent before breakfast today, R.A.F. Typhoons blew up the ammunition supply in one of three armed ships near the mouth of the Seine.

The Canadian squadron which made the attack on the three boats reported that the largest, about 100 feet long, had blown up.

This attack was led by F.O. Lloyd W. Powell, D.F.C., of Picardville, Alta.

The R.A.F. commentator said the Germans have about half their planes in Russia, including about two-thirds of their bombers. He said the Russians outnumber the Germans in the air, although the Axis might be able to achieve temporary local superiority wherever they wish to make a Summer drive.

He said the Germans are holding about 80 per cent of all their fighters in Western Europe to meet the R.A.F. and United States air forces, even though the need for fighters in Africa is immense. He estimated 15 per cent of the German fighters are in the Mediterranean and the other 25 per cent in Russia.

R.A.F. planes in Britain alone outnumber the German air forces facing them across the Channel, the commentator said, while the R.A.F. and non-American air forces in the Mediterranean outnumber all Axis forces there. The non-American forces included Canadian, French, South African, Anzac and others. Adding United States planes based in Britain and in the Mediterranean, the margin is greatly increased.

The R.A.F. commentator said there is no doubt that Germany is conserving a small bomber force in Western Europe in anticipation of invasion. He added that the Nazis are being slowly forced into production of fighters and fighter-bombers, instead of heavy bombers, as the need for defensive weapons increased.

NEW YORK, May 5 (CP).—The B.B.C. said today that the British Government has requisitioned 350,000 idle automobiles to be scrapped and broken up into steel, aluminum and rubber for war use. The broadcast was heard by C.B.S.

Would Prosecute For Infractions

CALGARY, May 5 (CP).—Persons who fail to conform with A.R.P. regulations during any alert or blackout, practice or otherwise, will be subject to prosecution, if the Calgary City Council passes a by-law recommended today by the civic legislative committee.

The by-law also provides a fine or imprisonment for anyone who refuses to obey orders or instructions of any authorized persons acting under the direction of the A.R.P. organization.

Board Hears Many Labor Union Briefs

Suggest Living Cost Indices by Zones

OTTAWA, May 5 (CP).—In a brief presented to the National War Labor Board today, the Canadian Congress of Labor said that adoption by the Dominion Government of a labor policy "which will be positive, comprehensive and unequivocal in its attitude toward labor" is the basic need of Canadian labor relations.

The second day of the board's general inquiry into labor matters was devoted to the hearing of briefs from labor organizations, the Canadian Congress, the Standard Railway Brotherhoods, the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor and the Quebec Regional War Labor Board.

Tomorrow the board will hear submissions of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and other regional boards.

James O'Connell-Maher, vice-chairman of the Quebec board, requested the Dominion authorities should submit to the province in writing any contemplated changes in existing labor legislation.

If it were decided to change the organization of regional boards Quebec would insist that its Labor Minister should be continued as a member because it regarded this as the only link the province had with administration of general labor policies in the face of temporary Federal intervention under war conditions.

QUESTIONS STATEMENTS ON WAGE RATES

There had been some broad statements made concerning wage rates in Quebec, he continued.

"It is easy to say that some areas are low wage areas, but it would be a tall order to prove it. I am not saying that Quebec industries pay the highest wages in Canada, but I am saying that it is dangerous to generalize."

The Canadian Congress of Labor in its brief, presented by the Congress president, A. R. Mosher, placed emphasis on the necessity of compulsory collective bargaining legislation.

"If the workers have the same right to organize for the protection of their interests as employers freely enjoy, they may properly look to the Government for protection in the exercise of that right and whatever legislation is necessary for this purpose should be adopted, either by order in council or by Act of Parliament, preferably by the latter," the Congress brief said.

The Congress also asked for amendment of wage control legislation to allow more liberal interpretation by war labour boards, and for the establishment of a "floor" at 50 cents an hour or $25 a week, below which the restrictive regulations would not be applicable.

The cost-of-living bonus should be made uniform throughout Canada with separate indices for zones in which there was a variance in the cost of living, the Congress suggested.

The Railway Brotherhoods in their brief, presented to the board by J. B. Ward, of Montreal, dealt at some length with the cost-of-living index. Workers had lost confidence in its compilation and the brotherhoods urged that steps should be immediately taken to have the index reflect true cost of living and to restore confidence. The brief said the brotherhoods were strongly opposed to a policy of Government subsidies which they said were designed to keep down the price of certain commodities and prevent a rise in the index.

Warned Not to Use Castoria

Foreign Substance In Patent Medicine

NEW YORK, May 5 (AP).—Newspapers throughout the United States carried advertisement today by the manufacturers of Fletcher's Castoria warning against the use of its product, sales of which had been halted by the company, after reports had been received some of the patent medicine had caused nausea.

The advertisements stated that the Centaur Company, of Rahway, N. J., manufacturers of the product, in co-operation with the United States Food and Drug Administration "warns all holders of Fletcher's Castoria . . . to discontinue the sale and use of the article because it has been discovered that all such Fletcher's Castoria which had been shipped since March 1, 1943, contains a foreign ingredient which causes nausea and vomiting."

Bond Sales Gain Over Last Drive

Total 25 Per Cent In Advance

OTTAWA, May 5 (CP).—The National War Finance Committee announced tonight that 531,890 investors subscribed $503,946,100 to Canada's Fourth Victory Loan in the first eight days of the three weeks' campaign for a minimum objective of $1,100,000,000.

In the first eight days of last Autumn's Third Victory Loan campaign, 401,492 subscribers invested $414,583,900. Objective of the third loan was $750,000,000.

On the eighth day of the present loan drive, 89,144 subscribers were recorded for a total of $67,590,850, compared with 76,337 subscribers in the Third Victory Loan who invested $47,618,850 on the corresponding day.

General canvass and payroll subscriptions combined represented at the end of the eighth day of the Fourth Victory Loan approximately a 25 per cent increase over the same eighth days of the previous loan, indicating that the percentage increase has been advancing since the end of last week, when the figure stood at 19 per cent.

An increase of 33 per cent is actually needed if $500,000,000 is to be obtained from the general public and wage-earners combined, the headquarters' statement said.

LARGE SUBSCRIPTION FIGURES CORRECTED

The committee said it had previously reported incorrectly figures of certain large corporate subscriptions from Montreal owing to transmission errors. It gave the correct figures as: National Steel Car Corporation Ltd., $3,000,000; Bronfman Interests & B. Aaron, $2,000,000; Distillers Corporation Ltd. and Jos. E. Seagram & Sons Ltd., $750,000.

Latest returns from Canada's Navy place the number of bond applications by officers and ratings at approximately 15,000. Atlantic Command has reached its $1,000,000 objective.

With many cities past the halfway mark for the combined general canvass and payroll savings, Brantford, Ont., continued in the lead with 66.8 per cent, followed by Fredericton with 60.9 per cent, Summerside, P.E.I., and Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., are tied for third place with 60 per cent each.

Other high percentages include Vancouver, 45.5; Moose Jaw, Sask., 42 per cent.

Brantford also leads among cities which have yet to reach their gross objectives with 85.1 per cent, while Hull rose to second place with 80.8 per cent, followed by Lethbridge, Alta., with 73 per cent.

Gross objective percentages of other leading cities include: Moose Jaw, 67.5; Red Deer, Alta., 60.6; Fort William, 56.2; Regina, 54.5; Calgary, 52.9; Medicine Hat, Alta., 52.4.

Following the example they set in preceding loans, Canadian mining companies have lent substantial support to the Fourth Victory Loan, headquarters says.

COMPANY SUBSCRIPTIONS TOTAL $20,075,000

Mining company subscriptions totalling $20,075,000, as reported here to date include Hedley Mascot Gold Mines Ltd., $50,000; Sheep Creek Gold Mines Ltd., $100,000; Gold Belt Mining Co. Ltd., $50,000; Central Zeballos Gold Mines Ltd., $10,000; Hudson Bay Mining & Smelting Co., Ltd., and subsidiaries, $3,000,000; Privateer Mine Ltd., $100,000; and Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co. of Canada Ltd., $7,500,000.

The first complete record of the Army's part in the Fourth Victory Loan reveals subscriptions in Canada totaling $6,677,800 for the first eight days, compared with the $2,650,850 raised during the whole of the Third Victory Loan. The cumulative total to date represents 126.8 per cent of the original objective of $5,265,000.

With subscriptions totaling $968,700, or 242 per cent of its objective, Military District No. 4, Montreal, leads the sixteen districts and commands set up for the loan campaign. The subscriptions achieved by the others, with percentage of quota bracketed, include M.D. No. 1, London, Ont., $346,750 (173); M.D. No. 10, Winnipeg, $250,680 (127); M.D. No. 13, Calgary, $289,950 (104); Seventh Division, $207,700 (104); Pacific Command, $670,500 (89).

From Winnipeg Canadian Pacific Air Lines yesterday reported subscriptions from 1,585 employees totaling $149,250. Number 5 Air Observer School, R.C.A.F., Winnipeg, operated by Canadian Pacific Air Lines, has subscribed $62,200 against a quota of $40,000.

To Control Mark-Up on Vegetables

OTTAWA, May 5 (CP).—The Prices Board said today that an order establishing a "strict mark-up control" on early Spring vegetables including lettuce, tomatoes, celery, cabbage, carrots, green peas and green or wax beans, will become effective shortly.

Rapid price rises in recent weeks together with evidence that "some importers and retailers are taking higher than their normal mark-up," were given as the reason for the proposed order.

"The mark-up control will be based on actual laid-down cost of imports or the laid-down cost based on United States ceiling prices, whichever is lower," the board said in a statement.

Ten Years for Knife Slaying

Three Others Get Terms for Shooting

VANCOUVER, May 5 (CP).—Leland Kenneth (Suki) Jones, twenty-six, negro, convicted of manslaughter in connection with the knife slaying of John William Wahlenberg, today was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment and a similar term was imposed on each of three youths convicted of slaying a Japanese during a holdup in January, 1942.

A fourth youth, John Petryk, nineteen, was sentenced by Mr. Justice H. B. Robertson at conclusion of Spring Assizes to nine years. He and Pte. Robert Hughes, twenty-one; William George Bellamy, twenty, and Floyd Berrigan, twenty-one, were convicted of manslaughter in a new trial which they won on their appeal from conviction of murdering Yoshiyuko Uno, for which all four were sentenced to hang.

Wahlenberg, formerly of Flin Flon, Man., was knifed when he interceded in a night club altercation last Hallowe'en.

Island Highway To Be Discussed

DUNCAN, May 5.—North Cowichan Council is perturbed over the proposed relocation of the Island Highway through their municipality and at last night's meeting of the city council that body was asked to join with North Cowichan in extending an invitation to the Minister of Public Works and the head of the Highway Commission to meet representatives of the two municipalities in connection with the matter. The council appointed Mayor Savage, Alderman Evans and City Clerk E. S. Fox to represent the city in the matter.

Alderman R. K. Cairns was appointed to represent the city on the district farm labor committee.

A letter from the Duncan Chamber of Commerce asking the council to negotiate with the Duncan-Nanaimo Utilities for a reduction in water meter rates was filed. A representative of the council will attend the next meeting of the chamber to explain the council's attitude.

A millwood and sawdust by-law was put through three readings. This will regulate the capacity of fuel trucks and the price charged to consumers.

The council decided to invest $3,100 of sinking funds in the Victory Loan.

The "Knifty Knitters" were granted permission to hold a tag day in Duncan on Saturday, June 26.

MEXICAN WOMEN FOOLED

MEXICO CITY, May 5 (AP).—Senora Soledad Avila Camacho, wife of the President of Mexico, returned to working women, last Mother's Day, all the sewing machines they had pawned in the Government pawnshop. This year, as Mother's Day approached, the pawnshop reported a great influx of machines—that owners evidently expected would be returned free. But the Government said the President's wife is giving 17,000 kerosene stoves to poor mothers this year.

SURVIVORS LANDED

NEW YORK, May 5 (AP).—Survivors of a medium-sized United States merchant vessel, torpedoed and sunk by an enemy submarine early in March in the North Atlantic, have been returned to New York, the navy announced today. Only eight survived of the merchant crew of forty-two. The action occurred shortly before midnight when a torpedo struck the starboard side of the engine room.

AVOID "DOSING" CONSTIPATION

TRY ALL-BRAN INSTEAD OF HARSH PURGATIVES

Take this BETTER WAY to get at trouble caused by lack of "bulk"

● In these wartime days when you're working so much harder, it's more important than ever to be free of constipation.

Instead of using harsh purgatives, why not take the "better way" to correct the cause of the common type of constipation due to lack of the right kind of "bulk"-forming material in the diet? KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN, a crisp, crunchy cereal, supplies the necessary "bulk" . . . tastes grand eaten either as a cereal or in hot muffins.

Eat ALL-BRAN every day and drink plenty of water. But, remember, ALL-BRAN doesn't work like purgatives. It takes time. Get ALL-BRAN at your grocer's, in either of two convenient sizes. Made by Kellogg's in London, Canada.

Victoria Still Well Behind Halifax Total

Local Bond Sales Far Short of Quota

Citizens of Greater Victoria took another beating yesterday at the hands of patriotic Haligonians who loosened purse strings and rolled up their total to date in the Fourth Victory Loan to $4,519,000, while this district had collected only $2,793,500.

Victoria, moreover, was still more than $154,000 short of its quota up to yesterday and nothing but a much clearer realization of the gravity of the situation on the part of citizens in general during the last half of the Loan campaign will remedy the situation.

The deficiency is general and cannot be attributed to local conditions in any one district, the only explanation being, according to officials of National War Finance Committee, that Vancouver Islanders are not awake to the urgent need of the Loan with respect either to financing Canada's major part in the war or to preventing inflation.

The following table shows collections to date by units in the first column, the quota to date and the deficiency:

	Subscribed	Quota to Date	Deficiency
Victoria	$1,581,200	$1,815,000	$154,700
Sannich	393,100	440,000	$1,900
Oak Bay	448,900	488,000	39,100
Esquimalt	285,250	352,000	66,750
Cowichan	223,440	284,000	38,550
Courtenay	141,009	184,000	39,300
Nanaimo	272,310	326,000	$1,600

were allowed to return to Pacific Coast states and that their retention in relocation centres was as vital for their own security as for the security of this country.

Representative Ward Johnson (Republican, California) told reporters that people on the West Coast didn't want to see "any Japanese around" and that he feared return of Japanese-American soldiers wearing an American uniform would "arouse serious resentment."

Added Representative Welch (Republican, California): "I wouldn't trust a Jap if he were wrapped up in the American flag."

Labor Subscribes To Victory Loan

Representatives of the Victory Loan Committee last night addressed the Victoria Trades and Labor Council and were assured of labor's wholehearted support of the present drive. Reporting for the electrical workers, C. Peck informed the council of the purchase of $3,000 worth of Victory Bonds and $2,000 was reported for the carpenters by W. Marshall. Several others are yet to be heard from.

A letter was received from S. Sigmundson concerning transportation matters. No action had yet been taken as to parallel parking on Douglas Street, Mr. Sigmundson said. He also stated that a plan for the reinstatement of transfer privileges in the Haultain district is under consideration, and that the Victoria subcommittee on transportation is meeting soon to discuss various briefs which were recently presented to him by Victoria labor organizations.

Hon. C. D. Howe wrote the council asking for further data to support the charge that castings are being made in the East for boats on the West Coast while men and patterns for the castings are available here. Additional particulars are being forwarded to Mr. Howe.

Alleging that women employed as letter carriers are receiving less money than is paid men for the same work, a letter of protest to the Minister of Labor was approved by the council.

Fifteen Flags Missing From Victory Float

V.M.D. officials reported yesterday the disappearance of fifteen flags, each six feet by four feet in size, which they believe were stolen from a float the company had entered in the Victory Parade. The flags include five Canadian, six Union Jacks and four not identified as to nationality. All are of good quality and the property of the Provincial Government, from which the flags had been borrowed.

Complaint was also made in behalf of V.M.D. employees, whose cars are being robbed of gasoline while standing in their parking places. City police have been asked to co-operate, and the complaints have been turned over to the detective department for investigation.

Education Could Remedy Juvenile Delinquency

"It is important to help our young people build up a set of values by which they can live, give them a sense of fellowship, something to anchor to," declared Dr. S. R. Laycock, professor of psychology of the University of Saskatchewan and vice-president of the Canadian Federation of Home and School, speaking to a large audience at the Central Junior High School last night.

Parents and teachers should bend every effort toward preparing young people to become sturdy, wholesome citizens who could win the war and after the peace treaty was signed. The most important need was for emotional independence now more than ever, so that they would be able to adjust themselves to the army discipline as a temporary situation and adjust back again to standing on their own feet after the war, he said.

"Mother's Day should be devoted to better motherhood, but not to sentimental glorification of motherhood, good or bad," he continued, discussing some of the mistakes parents make.

Juvenile delinquency was increasing in all cities, especially among teen age girls, this could be remedied if sex education were more complete. It was important to help youth form wholesome adjustments to the opposite sex; there was far more to it than teaching anatomical structure and the horrors of venereal disease, and attention should be focussed on the psychological needs for affection and belonging, which would satisfy the deeper needs of personality.

Stressing a child's psychological needs, Dr. Laycock told his audience that a sense of worth and of belonging were more important than food and shelter. Religions lifted people up, but "a lot of our penal institutions are pretty awful" in this respect.

Discussing the work done by the national committee for mental hygiene, he pointed out that there were twice as many people in mental hospitals as in universities, and that mental institutions cared for more patients than general and municipal hospitals. In Saskatchewan there were 3,800 in mental hospitals and 3,460 in all other hospitals, and the same proportions were noted in other provinces.

If parents adopted the right attitude they would be going a long way toward helping children face a war-torn world, he concluded: "Your children can take it if you can."

The speaker was introduced by Harold Campbell, inspector of schools, who presided at the meeting.

Two young artists were heard: Miss Shirley Gunn, of Oak Bay High School, whose two vocal numbers were received with great applause, and William Lorendi, of Victoria High School, who contributed two splendid violin selections.

Dr. Laycock will address the Kinmen tonight.

ete of the current Allied offensive.

How long the enemy can hold out in Africa was said to be now a question of supplies and reinforcements. Dispatches from captured Mateur said the Germans retreated from that important highway junction so hurriedly that they left military stores and food supplies, including 200 cases of California prunes.

For the third day clouds-limited air operations over the battlefield, but light naval forces blew up a Tunis-bound ship carrying munitions and mechanical transport and sank its 650-ton Italian torpedo boat escort off Cap Bon.

Long-range American bombers of the Desert Air Force also got in destructive blows on Southern Italy, hitting harbor targets at the Italian naval base of Taranto and Reggio Calabria.

Soviets Advance

Soviet airmen, who were heavily strafing the retreating Germans, the communique said.

The fighting raged from a point just northeast of Novorossisk to the Lower Kuban River Valley on the Taman Peninsula to the north.

BOMBERS RAID RUMANIAN PORT

Big Russian bombers also were disclosed to have flown at least 450 miles across the Black Sea to pound the German-occupied Rumanian port of Constanta Tuesday night, and other Axis rear-line objectives also were bombed.

Yalta in the Crimea opposite the Caucasus, Bryansk and Gomel in Central Russia, and Brest-Litovsk in Poland also were attacked by the Russian Air Force. Brest-Litovsk is on the 1941 border of Russia and Germany.

Many fires broke out and heavy explosions were observed in ammunition dumps and rail yards following these night attacks, Moscow said in a broadcast.

The entire Russian land front appeared to be coming alive, with fighting reported in various sectors between the Black Sea and Leningrad in the north, but the most violent actions were confined to the Caucasus.

BERLIN CALLS IT "INSIGNIFICANT"

Berlin already had acknowledged the loss of Krymskaya, seventeen miles northeast of Novorossisk, and sought to minimize its importance. Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, a Nazi commentator, said in a broadcast recorded by The Associated Press that Krymskaya was "absolutely insignificant" from a strategic point of view, and that the Germans gave it up as a means of "economizing forces for larger and more important projects."

Sertorius used the now familiar German phase of "shortening the front" in describing the loss of Krymskaya.

The Russians, however, said in the midnight bulletin that the Germans had converted Krymskaya into "a most important and heavily fortified strongpoint," which was won after fierce fighting.

Several dozen German blockhouses and dugouts were destroyed today in the Kuban Valley sector, the communique said. Soviet gunners also were reported to have destroyed two German tanks and twenty-seven trucks carrying infantry and supplies in supporting the "violent engagements" being fought there.

Soldier Hurt When Motorcycle Skids

Gunner Charles East, Twenty-First R.C.A. Willow Camp, sustained minor bruises, abrasions and a dislocated thumb when his skidding motorcycle mounted the curb and crashed into a pole at Cook Street and Fairfield Road at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The accident occurred while East was swerving to avoid a motor car driven by David White, 509 Cornwall Street. The city police ambulance removed East to the Mount Tolmie military hospital for treatment.

THE FIGHTING FRENCH

Those not behind the scenes can only estimate on the basis of happenings the causes of differences of opinion between General De Gaulle and General Giraud. Patently a prime cause is a varying viewpoint on the political authority that should be exercised over the Fighting French at this time, and the course that should be followed to make them united in their purpose. Since the capitulation of France General De Gaulle has been the personification of his country's soul in its fight for freedom. All those, both in France and in her colonies, who believed that they had been betrayed by Marshal Petain and the Vichy Government rallied to his cause and admitted his leadership. Then, with the landing of troops of the United Nations in Algiers and Morocco, General Giraud appeared on the scene. His authority over the French there has been acquiesced in by the High Command of the Allies, and, seemingly, in political circles in Great Britain and the United States. It is both a political and military authority and gives the outward impression of working harmoniously in the present Tunisian campaign where French troops have been fighting magnificently, even though in some instances handicapped by having to carry on the struggle with out-dated weapons of war.

There is more, however, than appears on the surface regarding French reaction in North Africa to the rival claims of General De Gaulle and General Giraud. It is symptomatic of this that in last Sunday's May Day ceremony at the tomb of the unknown soldier in Algiers a demonstration broke out in favor of General De Gaulle. Some 10,000 persons participated in this, marking the occasion with the making of the "V" sign, the singing of the Marseillaise, the shouting of "Vive La Republique," and cries of "Vive De Gaulle; we want De Gaulle." The display of this sentiment is an obvious explanation of why General Giraud desires to confer with General De Gaulle at some point in North Africa other than the Algerian capital. He may well be doubtful of what the outcome would be if the meeting took place at Algiers, and it is there that General De Gaulle desires that it should be held.

The probability is that the leaders of the United Nations are anxious that the Tunisian campaign should be ended before the long projected meeting between the rival French generals takes place. That is a logical desire, the more especially now that Axis resistance in North Africa seems to be in its concluding stages. It is regarded as important, however, that, as soon as possible thereafter, complete unity should be established in leadership of the Fighting French. This is a matter of vital concern preparatory to any invasion of German-occupied Europe. Much is hoped for in the reaction to such an invasion by the peoples of occupied countries, the more especially of France itself. It is certain that, within the next few weeks, or immediately following the end of the Tunisian campaign, every effort will be made to bring the leaders of the Fighting French together, to iron out their differences so that they will, both politically and in a military sense, present a united front to the enemy.

PATRIOTIC RESPONSE

Already serving their country without reservation, members of the three armed services of Canada stationed on Vancouver Island have contributed $707,000 to the Fourth Victory Loan, as at the close of business on Tuesday. That is a splendid response, one that shows the way like a beacon to those whose only service can be saving.

Contributing to the total of $707,000 were subscriptions amounting to $350,000 from units of the Canadian Army; $207,000 from officers and men of the Royal Canadian Navy; and $150,000 from flying and ground personnel in the Royal Canadian Air Force and the Royal Air Force, stationed on Vancouver Island.

For obvious reasons the number of men concerned cannot be stated, but the fine response has elicited the warmest commendation from National War Finance Committee representatives here. One feature of the subscriptions, and they are not yet complete, was that the money was forthcoming immediately, and without outside solicitation. This was the response of the united services to Canada's present need. No finer demonstration could have been given, for here each man was serving twice.

Making allowance for some minor adjustments that are now being worked out between the friendly contestants, Halifax is still considerably in the lead in the inter-city bond race. It will require the largest possible subscription from as great a number as possible to reduce that handicap, and put Victoria again in the lead. If citizens, however, view their responsibilities with the same vision and enterprise shown by the armed services, we can make a good race of it yet. For this everybody, serving Canada and also benefiting himself, wins. Only the enemy loses!

THAT PLEBISCITE

It is a year now since the people of Canada voted in favor of absolving the Federal Government from any commitments restricting the method of raising men for military service. The vote on the plebiscite, which obtained such widespread publicity at the time, was "Yes," 2,926,856 votes, and "No," 1,618,730 votes. Following the result, the Prime Minister characterized it as "an impressive demonstration of the importance which the electors of Canada attach to giving the Government a free hand at a time of war." Subsequent to the vote, Parliament passed Bill No. 80 repealing Section 3 of the National Resources Mobilization Act, which had been held previously to stand as an obstacle to conscription of men for overseas service. That Bill became law on August 1, last. It is now recalled that the plebiscite cost over $1,900,000, and that, to implement its purposes, nothing has been done save to allow drafted men to serve in Alaska or Newfoundland, or at some other point, outside Canada, on this continent.

The subject of the plebiscite and what it connoted is never mentioned in Parliament now. It is, with the legislation to which it gave birth, a dead letter in the law of the land. The wishes of the people, specifically directing the Government to engage in all-out war and in military compulsion towards that end, have been ignored [illegible] concerned the plebiscite might as well never have been taken, unless, indeed, at some time in the future when Canadian troops are engaged in the final battles of the war the need of reinforcements will become an imperative one and the Government will find it necessary to fall back on drafted men to supply the deficiencies in the Canadian Army overseas. Such men, however, in the light of future possibilities, should now be getting their training overseas as near as possible to whatever their front line will be in the future. All troops from this country have to round out their training with General MacNaughton's command when the intention is to use them in a battle area in the Old World. It is there, and there only, that they are equipped with all the modern weapons of war, for that is the case only to a limited degree in this country. There are no drafted men who can now be described as battle fit. If they are ever to be used on the fighting front it is now that the purposes of Bill No. 80 should be in effect.

NEED FOR NURSES

The call of patriotism, meaning the desire to serve their country in uniform, is denuding the ranks of nurses available for civilian purposes. It is estimated that 1,600 nurses have joined the armed services and hospitals in many centres of population are feeling the shortage. Because, too, of the enlistment of youthful women in the auxiliaries of the armed forces there are fewer who are entering their training for nurses. A real problem has developed which is causing a good deal of concern among hospital authorities. It is conceivable that this problem will right itself with the end of the war, but in the meantime there is an appeal, and it is country-wide, to meet the needs of the present situation. Civilian demands for nursing facilities, both in hospitals and in a private sense, cannot be ignored. Nursing is a career as proud and indispensable as any other in which women can engage. It is a career, perhaps above all others, for which women show greater aptitude than men, and it is regarded as peculiarly their own. They are the missionaries of mercy and of practical utility in homes and in hospitals; an essential part of community life. Their ranks must be kept filled.

The needs of the services have to be met, and more and more trained nurses will, in every eventuality, be called up in cases where they have entered their names for such war duties. That means that the problem of filling their places will become more acute unless there is a realization throughout the nation that civilian needs, too, must be met if the health of the people behind the fighting front is not to be jeopardized. It may be that the process of national selective service will have to take a hand in this problem of a shortage of nurses on the home front. In the meantime a national appeal is being made for more young women to take up training in the hospitals throughout the country. Nursing, whether in the services or in civilian garb, is a wartime occupation; and one, too, always indispensable in times of peace. The appeal to fill hospital and private needs in this particular must not fall on deaf ears.

A GRACEFUL ACTION

It was quietly done, and, perhaps, all the better for that. None the less, the gift of a model house for the girls, and a fine ship model for the boys, at the Queen Alexandra Solarium, from the employees of the Victoria Machinery Depot, was a thoughtful and charming action, and one of the highlights of the recent Victory Loan parade through city streets.

The house, large enough to stand upright and commence real housekeeping in, was handed over complete with its title deed. It was taken this week to Mill Bay. One can readily imagine the parties that will be held within its walls now; the house-warming, the visiting and the dressing-up! It is not difficult to imagine that a fairy smiled when someone had that kind thought. It was a good one, for the brightening of lives that are grey enough in spite of every human attention and care.

The model freighter—she must surely have been the good ship Sunshine—stands in precisely the same position. She, too, has been moved to Mill Bay, to be feasted on by eyes of those who would be a-roaming the seven seas of the world, if they could. A touch of kindly magic lay in both gifts. May they long bear fruit and flower in their fine new home! It was a graceful action, quietly done.

ENGLAND

Lift up thine eyes, Queen-Warrior of the world!
Stand, fearless-footed on Time's shifting verge.
And watch thine everlasting Dawn emerge
From clouds that thickly threaten thunderous War!
Lo, how thy broad East reddens to thy West.
The while thy thousand-victoried flag, unfurl'd
Waves to thy North and South in one royal fold
Of tent-like shelter for an Empire's rest.
O Queen, sword-girded, helmeted in gold,
Strong Conqueror of all thy many foes,
Look from thy rocky heights and see afar
The coming Future menacing the Past,
With clamour and wild change of present things.
Kingdoms down-shaken with the fall of kings!
But fear not Thou! Thou'rt still the first and last
Imperial wearer of the deathless Rose
Crown'd with the sunlight, girdled with the sea.
Mother of mightiest Nations yet to be!

—Marie Corelli.

SONNET

When I have borne in memory what has tamed
Great nations; how ennobling thoughts depart
When men change swords for ledgers, and desert
The student's bower for gold—some fears unnamed
I had, my Country!—am I to be blamed?
Now, when I think of thee, and what thou art
Verily, in the bottom of my heart
Of those unfilial fears I am ashamed.
For dearly must we prize thee; we who find
In thee a bulwark for the cause of men;
And I by my affection was beguiled.
What wonder if a Poet now and then,
Among the many movements of his mind,
Felt for thee as a lover or a child!

—William Wordsworth.

SELF-STARTERS

The world is full of people who will go if you give them a push. What Victoria is looking for now are the self-starters; those who can, and do, act without being prompted. The action we want, of course, is not from those who will talk about bonds, but those who will buy them. All the talk in the world, and there has been a deal of it, will not put Victoria's bond quota up one iota. The purchase of bonds will. Self-starters know that, and it is self-starters who are needed now in this, the stiffest part of the race. The Haligonian boat is a full length ahead.

* * *

Victoria never would have been founded if Sir James Douglas had waited for someone to advise him as to what was the best thing to do under the diverse and quite uncertain circumstances in the Spring of 1842. It was then he looked over the site. A year later he had compared three sites, each viewed from the standpoint of defence against possible tribal attack. In the Spring of 1843, Sir James said this was the spot. He so reported. He got busy at that, and saw to the building of the stockaded fort. It was well and truly built. For ten years all life in the community sheltered within its wooden walls. Sir James Douglas was a self-starter. He needed no one to hold his hand, or to speak his piece for him. He is remembered, and gratefully, for what he did.

* * *

Victoria never would have been settled if there had not been men and women who were willing to take the leap. It was a broad one. It meant removal from the old world to the new. It implied hardships that were reasonably imagined to be even greater than they were. It meant, for some, a long parting; never again to see the land of their birth, or the family roof-tree. Only men and women who trusted in a Divine Providence, and who carried their courage high, would have dared to take that leap. The pioneer settlers took it. They sailed round the Horn, to the new world; claimed it and made it their own. They were self-starters.

* * *

Things were not altogether a bed of roses in the new colony of Fort Victoria. It was a nine months' voyage home. It took a year and a half to get a reply from the home government. The Indians, though friendly, were themselves in great fear of other tribes, who were not. Law and order had to be created out of the wilderness. Somehow, that wilderness had to be made to yield a self-sustaining living. It did. It did because men and women hacked at it, drove back the forest, broke ground and cultivated it, learned to hunt and to fish, worked together in all things. Self-starters, all.

* * *

Fort Victoria gave way to the City of Victoria in 1862. The City of Victoria had to fight for its life on more than one occasion. Once it was almost out on its feet. Trade, mining had shifted elsewhere. The influx had stopped. The lure was away. Another time the plague swept it. There were many individual foundations that had to be built again. But the City of Victoria thrived, became not only the capital of the Crown Colony, but the capital of the Province and an entity in the Dominion of Canada. Men wrestled with Ottawa for a wagon-road, stood to their rights and said this was Canada, too. Self-starters, every one of them.

* * *

The world is full of people who will go if you give them a push. But what the world needs, and what Victoria needs at this moment, are the self-starters. These are the men and women who do things on their own initiative. One hundred years have rolled away since Fort Victoria was built by self-reliant individuals. Today it is Canada calling. Canada needs self-starters, those who will act and fight for her now. Cash can be turned into bonds. Savings can be earmarked for their purchase, week by week and month by month. From clear across Canada, Haligonians are showing us the way. Must we, in our hundredth year, toss in the foam of their wake? What do you say? More important, still, what will you do? Buy bonds with every dollar you have or hope to get. Do it today, now. Remember, what you save, you have; what you spend is gone, and forever. Every self-starter knows that!

The time used is Pacific Standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

To find the depth of water on the rise at the Esquimalt Drydock at any time, add 50 feet to the height of high water as above given.

LIVESTOCK LOST

CLIVE, Alta., May 5 (CP)—Loss was estimated at $1,500 today in a fire of unknown origin which destroyed the barns and contents of I. R. Calvert and burned to death fifty hogs, a number of sheep, lambs and turkeys and chickens, which were in the building near this town, seventy miles south of Edmonton. An automobile in the barn was also destroyed.

In one molecule of human blood pigment there are 16,669 atoms.

Firemen Refused Raise—What was interpreted by more than one alderman as a strike threat from Victoria's firemen was disposed of by the City Council last night by the "received and filed" route. A recommendation brought in by Alderman Fullerton, chairman of the fire wardens, to increase the salary of the men not getting $110 a month by 10 per cent was thrown aside. The firemen asked for an all-round raise of 15 per cent. Alderman Porter suggested closing down one of the fire halls and using the money thus saved to increase the salaries of the remaining firemen. Those who lost their positions by the change should be able to get more lucrative jobs elsewhere, he believed.

Look Before You Leap—The Halifax Chronicle has the following: "British Columbia has a secession agitation, the object of which is to divide the province into two . . . to separate the Mainland from Vancouver Island. That would mean two provinces on the Pacific, with the present Government and Legislature machinery duplicated, to govern a population scarcely large enough for one province. The people of British Columbia had better look before they leap . . . had better think twice before they agree to a division which will add another government to this already overgoverned Dominion."

H.M. Ship Forward—This vessel has for some time been on the slip at Laing's Shipyard, James Bay, undergoing a thorough external cleaning. She was expected to rejoin the fleet at Esquimalt yesterday. If consistent with the regulations of the Service, we wish the Admiral would allow the Forward to remain in the harbor of the capital, which ought to have one vessel, at least. In case of fire, etc., the crew would always be very useful.

BATHING IN THE NUDE

Sir,—In reply to Mrs. Hillington's letter on the above subject, I should like to suggest that it is perfectly easy to make a swimming suit out of a sack, or even to cut down an old pair of pants. In either of these one can be decently clad for bathing. There is a very strict law in this country against bathing in the nude and I do not think that the Government would have time to discuss the idea of altering it, even for the sake of children. Even if this were done I am afraid it would be abused. My advice to Mrs. Hillington is either to take my first suggestion or to go Up-Island to some ranch where there is a stream. There, her boys could bathe in the nude to their heart's content.—W. E. PERRY.

CURARE

Sir,—In last Sunday's Colonist we read, quoted from The Lancet, British medical journal, of the reaction of Dr. Helen Barnes to the poison which South American Indians use on their arrows. This is probably curare, that vile drug which is used on defenceless animals by some medical scientists. In this country Toronto and Montreal are reported as using it.

This drug is not an anaesthetic, as some people wrongly believe. It paralyzes the nerves of motion, leaving untouched the nerves of sensibility, and its effect is to increase pain. Claude Bernard, the notorious French physiologist and vivisector of the last century thus describes it: "In this motionless body . . . sensitiveness and intelligence persist in their entirety. The (apparent) corpse hears, sees and distinguishes all that is done around it, and suffers when pinched or irritated."

Anyone can realize the inhumanity that is possible with this drug (borrowed from savages), and since its use in medicine is "negligible," and it is not an anaesthetic (according to doctors themselves), why do the laws of civilized countries allow it to be used?—K. MORTON.

THANKS

Sir,—On behalf of the executive of British Columbia Toys Club for Blitz Babies, may I say "thank you" to Messrs. K. SHARPLES, Acting Secretary.

HEALTH INSURANCE

Sir,—Will you kindly give space in your fair and broadminded paper for this letter on "Health Insurance."

Now, like the late Will Rogers, "All I know is what I see in the papers." The papers tell us that this so-called health insurance means that every adult will be compelled to pay $26 a year; that means $2 a month will be hung round your neck like a millstone for the rest of your natural life, whether you are sick or not. That means that a family of two, three or four will have $4, $6 or $8 a month, as the case might be, to pay. Now, in the name of common sense, if a family can pay $4, $6 or $8 a month to the Government, why can they not pay it to their doctor or hospital and so get rid of it some time, and not hand it to the Government and never get rid of the load.

From what I understand the papers to say, you will not get everything for that. You can only get a public ward. If you want different accommodation you will have to dig down into your pocket. Then a doctor can choose his patient. We have fine doctors, but they are all pretty busy now, and perhaps will be more so after the war, so, say we went to one doctor and he said he was too busy to take us, and they all said the same, so what? Then you are only going to get certain kinds of medicine, and I suppose the Government is to judge what medicine we shall have and what we shall not; if they do not give you the right kind you will have to dig down into your pocket again. Then they say they are going to give us sports. Well, the young folks make their own sports, and surely they are not going to make the old folks take strenuous exercise. There is nothing more healthful than walking, and we can get that for nothing.

I would like to hear what others have to say on this subject of "Health Insurance."

I am wondering what these high-salaried Government officials will think of next. It puts me in mind of a poem I read once of a conjurer who walked into a village grocery store where the men generally congregate, and started to do his tricks. In the midst of his performance, he lit a cigar and threw away the match, which happened to land on a keg of gunpowder.

What the conjurer did they could not tell
But up in the air he went with the rest.
And all he could hear was, "What in the —— world
Do you think that conjurer will do next."—MRS. KING.

CLAIMS SINKINGS

NEW YORK, May 5 (AP)—The German High Command, in a communique broadcast from Berlin and recorded by The Associated Press, claimed today that sixteen Allied ships, totaling 102,000 tons, were sunk by German submarines attacking two convoys in the North Atlantic, and four other vessels torpedoed. There was no confirmation of the claim.

How "New Structure" Was Engineered in Japanese Empire

By FRANK M. KELLEY

When in 1940 Japan adopted the "New Structure" as a pattern of living for the subjects of that country all political parties were abolished and what semblance of representative government existed at the time was completely done away with. It was a consummation that had been desired by the army and navy for some years and purposely paved the [illegible] military clique absolute control of the country, with Tojo, the War Minister of Konoe's Cabinet and a former chief of the Kwantung Army, as premier.

This state of affairs was brought about very cleverly, although it took some time, which made the military chiefs a bit peevish. How the promoters of the "New Structure" could unblushingly support the argument that the rulers of Japan as sons of heaven could do no wrong on the one hand and at the same time upset something put in effect for the benefit of the Japanese people by an emperor the most revered of all time in the history of the islands, is something else again. Evidently little things like setting aside enactments of a sun god's descendants are not of much concern where a possibility of something eventually transpiring for the betterment of the masses of the country might be sidetracked indefinitely.

This would appear to be the case as far as certain factions in Japan are concerned. With all the prerogatives of a wholly constitutional monarch, ruling as the representative of heaven, Emperor Meiji-Tenno voluntarily gave Japan a sort of constitution in 1889. It provided for a Privy Council and Diet comprising House of Peers and House of Representatives. The House of Peers was composed of Imperial princes princes and marquises, who sat by virtue of heredity; counts, viscounts and barons, representing their respective orders through mutual selection; 125 Imperial nominees appointed by the Emperor for distinguished service; four members of the Imperial Academy; and sixty-six representatives of the highest taxpayers, the membership totaling 400.

ELECTED BY PEOPLE

The House of Representatives consisted of 466 members elected by the people. While this order of government held good a number of factions flourished in the House of Representatives. Principal parties were the Seiyukai and the Minseito. Labor had been represented since the first general election under universal male suffrage in 1928. A general election was supposed to take place every four years.

Constitutional government as it was in Japan began to fade with the beginning of the Manchurian affair in the early thirties and the spirit of the main parties grew steadily weaker between 1932 and 1940. There were many changes in government—cabinets were formed and in some cases functioned for only a matter of months. These changes became more frequent after the "China Incident" had been going for about a year. There was continual friction among the members concerning the conduct of the "incident," and this eventually provided the opportunity, with the outbreak of the European war, the military had been hoping for and endeavoring to bring about.

Any form of government which would appear to criticize the ways of the military and interfere in any way with their objectives couldn't get far if the uniformed leaders could help it. It was only a short time after universal male suffrage was initiated that the idea of the single-grooved system of government began to be discussed in the Diet. In 1931, one Kenzo Adachi started the ball rolling with his Kokumin Domei. In 1933, Yosuke Matsuoka, fresh from Geneva, proposed creating a single party to "dissolve the political parties." Just before the elections of 1936 a new group called the Showakai advocated it, and the same year there was a movement to launch the single party by a group of military leaders. The agitation continued through 1937, 1938 and 1939 and the arguments pro and con are credited with the downfall of the first Konoe Cabinet in the latter year.

DISBANDMENT OF UNIONS

When Yonai succeeded Abe, who assumed office following Konoe, Abe had been premier less than six months. Yonai lasted just six months. Presented with an ultimatum by one Kuhara demanding a single party government, the fall of the Yonai Cabinet resulted. Under the Yonai Cabinet's regime the Seiyukai party voluntarily passed out of existence and became supporters of the "New Structure." It was followed in turn by the Minseito party, the Labor party having no choice but to dissolve when all unions were ordered to disband—or else.

Prevailed upon to head the "New Structure" Prince Konoe rapidly took steps to do away with whatever resemblance the Diet of Japan might have had in the way of a liberal constitution. He took into his cabinet, among others, Hideki Tojo, as War Minister; Yosuki Matsuoka, president of the South Manchurian Railway, as Foreign Minister, and Naoki Hoshino, chief of Manchurian Affairs Board, as Minister without portfolio. These three particularly, indicated what might occur in the field of international politics under the "New Structure." The indications were borne out when Konoe passed out of the active picture and Tojo took over the premiership.

It looks as though Konoe in his second term as premier was but the means to an end for the military. During both Abe's and Yonai's premierships Konoe was touted as the logical leader of the wanted single party. He had been coaxed and flattered into taking it on, the glamour of having complete control over the Japanese people being too much for him in the end. Whatever his respect for the Emperor Meiji-Tenno may have been and what the latter had done towards giving Japan a constitution was evidently of no account. He was in turn quoted as saying, in the establishment of the "New Structure" that there were "pressing demands for the establishment of a New Structure in politics, economy, education, culture and all the domains of the life of state and people." . . . "We must make one living whole of our 100,000,000 fellow countrymen and enable all to fulfill duty as subjects of the throne." "Everything must be centred in helping the Emperor." . . . "Socialism and liberalism must be rejected." . . . "It is not enough to permit the people to voice their opinions through elections every three or four years."

* Blackwood convention.

East opened the heart ace, then played a low heart. Declarer cashed my A-K clubs, then led a club and overruffed West's seven with the ten. The spade four was led to the nine, and another club ruff followed. A second finesse against the spade king and the drawing of that card made the South hand good for the rest of the tricks.

The questions I should like to ask, however, are about the bidding. I realize that my three club bid was unleaded for and that the Blackwood convention was useless, for East had to have the two aces for even a near one no trump opener. What was the best bid I could make over one no trump? I might add that I was a bit concerned as to just how my partner was going to enter his hand in the play, but since he was marked with four spades and four diamonds, and since I was sure the hearts ace would be opened in view of the diamond bid, I knew that even if he had three clubs and two hearts he could discard a club on my third heart and thereafter enter his own hand with a club ruff.

South's reasoning as contained in his last paragraph, over the question of how North would be able to enter his own hand for the spade finesse was soundly imaginative and compensated in great part for the three club bid which figured to wreck the North-South chances. On the first round of bidding South had th better call available than the double of one no trump, this despite the fact that such a double is 95 per cent a penalty double. If North chose to leave it in South had no great cause for worry inasmuch as he figured to collect many points from the vulnerable opponents. On the second round, however, South ran a terrible risk by bidding only three clubs. This was not even a force and if North had not, very surprisingly, held open the bidding with his providential three diamond call, North-South would have lost not only a game but a slam. On his remarkable holding South would not have been far out of line if he had jumped all the way from two spades to six spades, although admittedly that contract would fail if North had an absolute blank and, moreover, could not even enter his own hand.

Cheaper Insurance For Air Passengers

MONTREAL, May 5—Air travel having established an excellent record for safety in operation, it is now possible for air-borne passengers to obtain substantial insurance for a trip at a moderate premium, on better terms than those previously in effect.

O. T. Larson, vice-president, Trans-Canada Air Lines, today announced that arrangements have been completed to provide for policies of a liberal character for passengers traveling between any two points over the company's entire route and over any other air line in North America when passage is booked on a T.C.A. ticket office.

Under the new plan, which it is anticipated will go into effect May 15 next, the passenger may buy an insurance policy when he purchases his transportation ticket. T.C.A. passengers will be able to obtain coverage up to $20,000 at the rate of twenty-five cents for each $5,000 for four hours flying time or any part thereof. For example, a passenger will pay a premium of twenty-five cents for $5,000 insurance covering a flight from Montreal to Ottawa or Toronto, while the premium on a flight from Halifax to Vancouver would be $1.50 for $5,000, or $6 for $20,000.

The tariff of premiums has been prepared in such plain form that a ticket agent can scan the cost to the passenger in a glance and complete the transaction without any delay being caused by calculation. The policy is an inclusive one protecting the traveler from the moment he sets himself in a motor car under control of Trans-Canada Air Lines for passage from the starting point to the airport during the flight, and until his arrival by motor car at the terminal point of his journey.

Sam Buxton Sets New Record Across Atlantic

Makes Trip in Loaded Liberator in Only Six Hours, Twelve Minutes, Landfall to Landfall

MONTREAL, May 5 (CP)—Less than a week after announcing a new North Atlantic flying record, the Royal Air Force Transport Command came up today with another new one—a landfall-to-landfall mark of six hours and twelve minutes from Newfoundland to Britain in a fully-loaded Liberator bomber.

A landfall-to-landfall mark is the elapsed time from when the pilot loses sight of land as his aircraft begins the ocean flight until he first sees it after completing the crossing.

Last Thursday the Transport Command revealed, with a series of other best flying times, that Capt. W. S. May, of the suburban town of Mount Royal, had flown the distance—2,200 statute miles—in six hours and twenty minutes in a Liberator.

SLICES EIGHT MINUTES OFF

Today, it was announced that Capt. C. R. (Sam) Buxton, of the British Overseas Airways Corporation, operating with the Transport Command, had sliced eight minutes from Capt. May's record.

Capt. Buxton's time from take-off to landing was seven hours and sixteen minutes — twenty-four minutes less than Capt. May's performance and forty-five minutes less than the best previous mark for the fastest Atlantic crossing.

But the Newfoundland-to-Britain mark wasn't the only record Capt. Buxton set up. His flight began at Montreal—2,450 statute miles from his destination—and he flew to Newfoundland in three hours, fifty-six minutes. His total actual flying time from Montreal to Britain, therefore, was eleven hours and twelve minutes—one hour and nine minutes better than the previous best elapsed time flight via Newfoundland and thirty-eight minutes better than one via Nova Scotia, both accomplished in the previous two weeks by Capt. S. W. A. Scott.

Standing By for First 1943 Trip On Northern Lake

EDMONTON, May 5 (CP)—Reports reaching Edmonton tonight said northern river boats of the Northern Transportation Company and the Hudson's Bay Mackenzie River division were "standing by" at waterways for their first trip of the 1943 season on Lake Athabaska.

Other boats, loaded with freight and foodstuffs belonging to American concerns, also were reported standing by.

The Mackenzie River was reported fairly clear of ice. The lake was "solid" last Saturday, but latest reports said it was breaking. Company officials in Edmonton believed the boats would get away on their first trips about next week-end.

Last year the Athabaska lake and river boats began their first trip on May 9.

Ships of Many Nations Help

LONDON, May 5 (CP)—The Admiralty said today that the navies of the German - occupied countries which are fighting with the United Nations total 220 combat ships and 26,700 men.

The Royal Netherlands Navy leads with sixty-three ships and 6,850 men.

Others include: Fighting French, forty-nine ships and 6,160 men; Norwegian, fifty-three ships and 5,100 men; Greek, thirty-three ships and 5,450 men; Polish, twelve ships and 2,600 men; Yugoslav, three ships and 200 men; Belgian, seven ships and 350 men.

The ships range from cruisers down to mine sweepers.

It was announced that a Danish naval force had been formed to join the Allied forces.

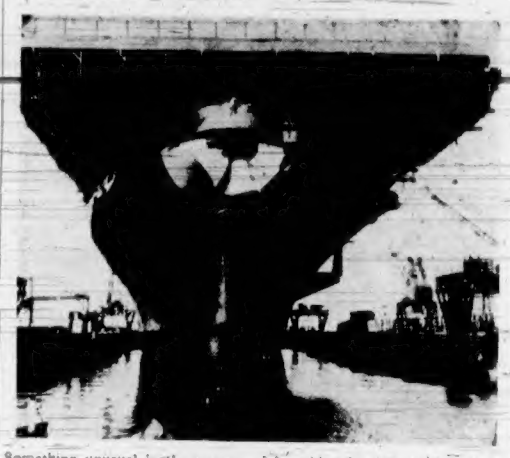
Submarine Found

STOCKHOLM, May 5 (CP)—The Swedish submarine Ulven which disappeared April 18 with thirty-three men while on manoeuvres has been located in 179 feet of water off Marstrand on the west coast, a communique announced tonight.

The navy will begin efforts at once to raise the Ulven to determine the cause of her sinking.

The Swedish Government earlier announced that an armed German merchantman had fired on the Swedish submarine Draken inside Sweden's territorial waters on the same day the Ulven was lost, near the area where the Ulven went down. It lodged a strong protest with the German Government.

New Carrier Launched



Something unusual in the manner of launching is pictured here as the Intrepid, third giant United States aircraft carrier built at Newport News, Va., since Pearl Harbor, is "floated off" her drydock building ways. The sponsor, Mrs. John Howard Hoover, wife of Vice-Admiral Hoover, smashed a bottle of champagne against the carrier's hull from a floating platform mounted on a small barge.

Airmen of Many Countries Win Britain's Decorations

LONDON, May 5 (CP)—Airmen of the many squadrons of the free forces, Polish, Czech, Fighting French, Netherlands, Norwegian and Belgian squadrons, have won more than 300 British decorations, chiefly D.F.C.'s and D.F.M.'s.

They have had part in virtually all Britain's aerial activity, the defence of Britain, sweeps over France and Belgium, anti-submarine patrols, shipping, "strikes," and bombing raids over Germany and the occupied countries.

Nearly all these air heroes to whom British awards have been made are anonymous because they still have relatives living in Nazi-occupied countries. Outstanding among those who have been named are Wing Cmdr. Le Roy du Vivier, D.F.C., Belgian fighter pilot who was the first Allied airman to take command of a British squadron; Commandant Jean Morlaix, D.S.O., D.F.C. and bar, a French "ace" with twenty-one planes to his credit and the renowned "intruder" pilot from Czecho-Slovakia, Flt. Lieut. Karl Kuttelwascher, D.F.C. and bar. "Kutt" has fifteen planes downed at night, three in daylight.

POLISH FLYERS WIN MOST AWARDS

The Polish Air Force, largest of all the Continental Allied air forces, has won more British decorations than all the rest put together, more than 120. They have destroyed 809 German aircraft, and one squadron alone has shot down 170, while Polish bomber squadrons have been on all the important raids and made more than 5,000 sorties.

There are nearly twenty Polish squadrons in Britain now.

French fighter pilots, operating from British bases, destroyed 273 German planes. Belgium now has more pilots operating in Britain and Africa than she had before the German invasion. They have won ten D.F.C.'s.

The Czechs, who have three fighter squadrons, a bomber squadron and a Coastal Command squadron, have won forty-seven British decorations. The Norwegians flying in Britain have accounted for forty-three enemy aircraft, while Netherlands flyers won five British awards.

NOTICE TO MARINERS

Mariners are advised that the unwatched light on Double Island, Esperanza Inlet, B.C., is reported not burning. This light will be attended to as soon as possible.

Crewmen Refuse to Go to Sea as Result of Dispute

MONTREAL, May 5 (CP)—Crewmen of four ocean-going vessels operated by various shipping companies for the Canadiann Government have refused to go to sea because of dissatisfaction over war bonuses and overtime rates, officials of the Canadian Seamen's Union reported here today.

Harry Davis, union secretary, said the men objected because overtime rates being paid by the shipping companies were lower than those set by the Wartime Seamen's Pool, the Government-operated agency which pays seamen while they are awaiting a berth on a ship. He declined to identify the companies.

He said they were dissatisfied with the war bonus because the companies were offering youths under twenty-one years of age only one-half the amount set by the pool. Seamen over twenty-one get the full bonus.

Mr. Davis said he had advised Arthur Randles, director of merchant seamen at Ottawa, of the dispute and had suggested that in an effort to get the ships moving, the "pool" rates be paid pending a decision from the National War Labor Board on a brief being submitted to a board meeting at present being held in Ottawa.

He said he told Mr. Randles there was "no one in Montreal willing to discuss the issues."

Frigate and Freighter Launched

Double Ceremony at West Coast Yards

Two vessels, a frigate and a freighter, each destined to play its part in Canada's war effort, slid gracefully down the ways of West Coast shipyard plants last night.

Seventeen-year-old Miss Evelyn Patterson, youngest shipwright's Helper in the yard, christened the 10,000-ton steel freighter Yoho Park, in a ceremony witnessed by many workers and invited guests.

Bill McKenzie, shipwright, drew the ticket giving him the choice of naming the sponsor, and being a bachelor, selected the former Winnipeg girl for the honor.

Completed twenty days ahead of schedule, the large freighter is another of the fine ships turned out at this West Coast yard. Three hours after Yoho Park hit the water the keel was laid for another "Victory" ship.

MINISTER'S WIFE NAMES WARCRAFT

At another West Coast yard and almost at the identical time, a sleek warcraft left the ways and glided into the water following another colorful ceremony.

Named H.M.C.S. New Glasgow, after the city of New Glasgow, Nova Scotia, the frigate was christened by Mrs. W. G. Wilson, wife of Dr. W. G. Wilson, former minister of First United Church. A native of New Glasgow, Mrs. Wilson performed the important ceremony at the request of Hon. Angus Macdonald, Minister of National Defence for Naval Services.

Father A. B. B. Wood, R.C.N., and Chaplain G. L. Gillard, R.C.N., pronounced the blessings on the ship before the traditional bottle of champagne was smashed on her bow and she slid down the ways.

Capt. Massey Goolden, D.S.C., R.C.N., supervised the launching for the department.

After witnessing the ceremony, workmen started to work on laying the keel for another ship to be constructed on the same ways.

We give our advertising space again to talk of the 4th Victory Loan rather than of Laundering or Dry Cleaning. We do so because we've reached a crisis, and because it seems that some people in Victoria are not taking the matter seriously enough. To put this thing over in Victoria is VITAL and it's such a big job that it can't be accomplished unless each one of us does our part, UNLESS YOU DO YOUR PART. And aside from the vital necessity of our Country raising the money is the fact that from Victoria to Halifax it will be announced either that we DID do it or that we DIDN'T. Edgecombe, in Fredericton, N.B. On the way Mrs. Roaf will also visit Mrs. Spencer Nairn in Calgary. Prior to her departure from Vancouver Mrs. Roaf was hostess to a number of friends when Mrs. E. W. Hamber and Mrs. M. A. Macdonald presided at the tea table.

"The Rocks" Charm Visitors, Bring Funds to Red Cross

"The Rocks," one of Victoria's most beautiful gardens, was thrown open to the public yesterday by Mrs. Dave Spencer, and despite the inclement weather over $50 was netted for the Red Cross.

At this time of the year the gardens are a symphony in color tones, thousands of tulips in pinks and yellows embedded in mists of forget-me-not entrance the visitor throughout the spacious grounds, where golden cascades of cytisus Kewensis and purpurescens cover rocks that have been artistically arranged to hold rock plants of numerous varieties. A glorious cluster of lithospermum "Heavenly Blue" grows and blooms extravagantly near one of the rock ponds, and azaleas bring gorgeous coloring to the scene.

Because of the uncertain weather many visitors canceled their visit to "The Rocks," and for this reason Mrs. Dave Spencer has kindly assured Miss Alice Pooley and Miss K. Fraser, who were responsible for yesterday's affair, that the gardens will again be open to the public in aid of the Red Cross later in the season.

A memorial service for Cypriots who have died on war service was conducted at Limassol by the Bishop of Paphos.

Gordon Head Unit Convenes Tea in Aid of Red Cross

A well-attended and successful tea held at the home of Mrs. P. H. Mansfield, Tyndall Avenue, Gordon Head, yesterday afternoon, [illegible] in the sum of $66.30 being added to the funds of the Gordon Head Red Cross Unit.

Mrs. Mansfield received the guests, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Camp. Mrs. E. H. Mitchell, convener of the district unit, represented the Red Cross Society.

For the occasion the house was beautifully decorated with tulips and narcissi. Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. Horne, Mrs. M. Mathieson, Mrs. C. Grant, Mrs. Bronsdon, Mrs. A. E. Meadley, while serviteurs were Mrs. A. G. Lambrick, Mrs. Rosenquist and Mrs. Camp. Teacup reading by Mrs. J. McIndoe proved very popular.

Mrs. S. Ruby was in charge of home cooking, while Mrs. J. P. Holmes sold aprons, and Mrs. G. Rosen was in charge of the garden stall.

Students' Programme Assists Red Cross

A delightful programme was given by the piano students of Mrs. D. L. Gilbert, A.T.C.M., in St. Aidan's Church on Tuesday evening. The assisting artist, Mr. Percy Boorman, gave two violin solos, "Andante" and "Salut d'Amour" (Elgar), which were greatly enjoyed. During the intermission a collection amounting to $7.25 was taken up for the Mount Tolmie Unit of the Canadian Red Cross.

Piano duets were played by the following teams: Deana Gilbert and Jean Roberts, Norma Bissenden and Irene Hemming, Jack Griffiths and Russell Atkinson, Winnie and Vivian Notley. A piano trio was played by Marjorie Boorman, Deana Gilbert and Ross Sturgeon. The above children also were heard as solo performers. Other children contributing solo numbers were Bernice Cummings, Shirley Sturgeon, Betty Townsend, Dorothy Rooney and Bernice Levis.

Mrs. W. Ellis President Of Musical Art Society

Mrs. William Ellis was elected president of the Victoria Musical Art Society at the thirteenth annual meeting held last evening at the Y.W.C.A., the retiring president, Mrs. E. W. Hetherington, in the chair. Other executive positions are as follows: First vice-president, Miss Ethel James; second vice-president, Mr. Reginald Cox; treasurer, Mr. John Gough, and secretary, Miss Mary Adamson.

These appointments were made at the executive meeting held following the annual meeting when seven directors were elected: Mrs. Pierre Timp, Mrs. Llewellyn Jones, Miss Mary Adamson, Miss Dorothy Francis, Miss E. Brumpton, Miss Ethel James and Mr. Eddie Hulford. The following members remain on the board of directors for the year 1943-1944, as their terms of office have not yet expired: Mrs. E. W. Hetherington, Mrs. R. D. McCaw, Mrs. R. W. Hannington, Mrs. H. F. Lasenby, Mr. Reginald Cox and Mr. Stanley Shale. Mrs. John L. Clay retired from the office of secretary, having served for six years.

For the first time in the history of the society the honorary president, Mrs. J. O. Cameron, was unable to be present.

Conveners were appointed as follows: Membership, Mr. R. Cox, Miss E. James; publicity, Mrs. H. F. Lasenby and Mr. E. Hulford; official pianist, Mrs. Grace Timp; programme conveners, Mrs. J. O. Cameron, Mrs. W. Ellis, Mrs. E. W. Hetherington, Mr. Stanley Shale, Miss Brumpton, Miss M. Adamson, Miss Dorothy Francis, Mrs. H. F. Lasenby and Mrs. Pierre Timp.

Mrs. R. D. McCaw and Mrs. Timp will continue to advise the intermediate group and Mrs. Ellis and Mrs. Llewellyn Jones the juvenile branch.

PRESIDENT SAYS "CRUCIAL YEAR"

Retiring from the presidency after three years in office, Mrs. E. W. Hetherington, in her address, spoke of the season just past as "one of the most crucial in the history of the society." The strain of existing conditions and the constant changes taking place made the year a difficult one in which to guide the activities of the group. The maxim "Man cannot live by bread alone," Mrs. Hetherington said, had been brought to mind often during these war days and the cultural forces of art and music, of which "this society is a representative," must, she said, "be kept alive."

Mrs. Hetherington advocated raising the membership fee "to enable the society to pay higher artist fees and thereby offer the public programmes of greatest artistic value."

It is to be regretted, said the president, that this year the scholarship fund has not been augmented, nor has a student been financially assisted. She suggested that the Music Teachers' Association be asked to make recommendations with regard to students they consider worthy of assistance in advanced training and a standing committee be appointed to act as talent scout. Mrs. Hetherington advocated withholding scholarship grants until such time as the society is strong enough to pay fees at least approximating professional sums for the later engagements of these winners.

Many promising young musicians have joined the services and the auxiliary branch for students of eighteen to twenty-five years has expired, owing to insufficient numbers. The Intermediate and Juvenile groups continue to flourish said Mrs. Hetherington and "we are very proud of the achievements of these young people," she added. The senior advisers, Mrs. R. D. McCaw and Mrs. Pierre Timp and the junior advisers, Mrs. Llewellyn Jones and Mrs. W. Ellis, were congratulated on the excellence of their work. The president also mentioned the success of the joint concert by pupils of Mrs. Huntly Green and Mr. Stanley Shale. In conclusion Mrs. Hetherington thanked the board of directors, the treasurer, Miss E. Brumpton, and secretary, Mrs. John L. Clay, for their splendid co-operation.

SECRETARY'S REPORT

The report of the secretary, Mrs. Clay, revealed a total membership in the society of 352 persons. Eleven business meetings were held during the year and seven concerts were given, which were well attended. In September Mr. Huntly Green had graciously opened her home for a programme and reception for members and prospective members.

The concert season opened on October 31 with a recital by Mrs. Huntly Green, and in November the only out-of-town professional, Miriam Marmien, mime and dancer, was presented. Other programmes were given by well-known local artists. On March 21 the twilight recital at First Baptist Church was given by members of the Intermediate Group and was convened by Mrs. R. D. McCaw and Mr. Stanley Shale.

The treasurer, Miss E. Brumpton, gave the financial statement, revealing a bank balance of $233.53. A cheque for $100 has been donated to the newly-formed Symphonic Society in appreciation of its endeavors to advance music in Victoria.

Short reports were given by the Intermediate Group and Juvenile Branch. The former has eighty-six members, the latter fifty-two. The Intermediate Group held seven meetings during the year when varied programmes were given. The highlight of the season was the concert of ensemble music given on May 3 for the benefit of the Myra Hess Fund. The group, under the direction of Mrs. R. D. McCaw, has continued the Sunday night concerts at Macaulay Point despite difficulties of transportation.

The Juvenile Branch, under the supervision of Mrs. W. Ellis, also held seven meetings during the year when varied programmes were given by the members and guest artists.

At last evening's meeting a short programme was given by Joan Milloy and Bobby Reeves, from the Juvenile Branch, and Patricia Straughan, Marie Vowles, Helen McRae, Jean Dumerton and Georgina Moore, members of the Intermediate Group.

Weddings

DOMMETT—SMITH

The Church of Our Lord was the scene of a pretty wedding on April 22 when Rev. A. E. V. Bird united in matrimony Elsie, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Smith, Comox, and Cecil Norman Dommett, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Dommett, of Kamloops. Given in marriage by her father, the bride was a charming picture in her floor-length gown of white chiffon, with jacket of midnight blue velvet. Her long wedding veil fell from a tiara, and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses. Attending the bride was Miss Eva Turner, of Regina, who wore shell pink chiffon, with blue velvet hat and blue veil, and carried pink carnations and blue iris. Mr. Harry Smith, Victoria, was groomsman. Following the ceremony a reception was held in Terry's Rose Room. The honeymoon will be spent at Comox, V.I.

Honor Recent Bride

Mrs. R. C. Stewart and Mrs. M. McDuff were joint hostesses at a shower Tuesday evening at the home of the former, Nelson Street, to honor Mrs. Edward Chattell, formerly Miss Viola Stewart. The bride and her mother, Mrs. W. Stewart, received corsage bouquets of pink carnations, and the gifts were concealed in a gaily decorated box. Later in the evening a buffet supper was served. Other guests included Mrs. N. Fraser, Mrs. M. Nicol, Mrs. M. Dobbie, Mrs. G. Williamson, Mrs. L. Hansen, Mrs. A. McBeach, Mrs. Pearce, Mrs. S. Pomeroy, Mrs. R. Cartwright, Mrs. R. Stewart, Mrs. Comerford, Mrs. S. Craig, Mrs. H. Rudd, Mrs. A. Cookman, Mrs. S. Hall, Mrs. N. Patterson, Mrs. Buckingham, Mrs. Hodgson and Misses M. Buckingham and S. Hall.

The British Ministry of Home Security has announced that people living in "high-risk" areas will shortly have small static water tanks erected in front gardens for use by stirrup-pump teams.

Mrs. W. L. Clay Heads Women's Home Committee

Mrs. W. L. Clay was re-elected president of the ladies' committee of the Aged and Infirm Women's Home at the annual meeting held recently at the home. Other officers also re-elected were: First vice-president, Mrs. F. W. Vincent; second vice-president, Mrs. E. Heddle; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. A. D. Whittier. Regret was expressed at the absence of the honorary president, Mrs. William Grant, owing to advancing years, and the resignation of Miss Emily O'Brien, a valued member for many years.

In her address, Mrs. Clay said: "The Aged Women's Home this year celebrates the forty-fifth anniversary of its founding, forty-five years of service to hundreds of women, which would not have been possible but for the devoted efforts of the members of the committee and the consistent co-operation of matrons and staff." Mrs. Clay also alluded to legacies received during the year from the late Lady Barnard and Mr. John Dean. Appreciation was expressed to the Ministerial Association and Salvation Army for holding weekly religious services, to the doctors for their ministrations, and to the many organizations and individuals who provide entertainment for the residents, including Miss Barbara Blackstone and Miss Alexandra McGavin, who give a programme every Friday.

Mrs. A. D. Whittier, the secretary, in her report also emphasized the need for additional, adequate accommodation for aged women in Victoria. During the year, 134 had been cared for in the home; fifteen had passed away, and five had left to enter hospital or the care of relatives. Despite the difficulties of obtaining help, the staff had kept the home at the same efficient standard. The financial statement showed a satisfactory balance, and no appeals were made to the public.

Beaver Club Aids Shower of Dimes

The much-admired bassinet, which had been decorated by members of the Hudson's Bay Company Beaver Club, and presented to the Solarium Junior League for its "April Shower of Dimes," was the means of raising the splendid sum of $190 for the shower.

At a pleasing ceremony which took place in the manager's office of the Hudson's Bay Company yesterday morning, F. V. Sellers, president of the Beaver Club, and Mrs. W. McEwen, convener of the "April Shower of Dimes," announced that Mrs. J. F. Sweeting, 19 Cook Street, will be the recipient of the bassinet.

Battledress for civilians, it is said, is coming sooner, or later. It will, however, be considered bad form to wear it at a wedding, as it would add a sinister significance to the ceremony.

Canadian Girls Fold Parachute

IN the successful operation of a parachute, the all-important point is its folding. If it is not folded properly and falls to open, there is little chance for the wearer to take it back and get a new one. Fortunately, the failure of a parachute is an extremely rare event these days. This is due to the diligent care that young Canadian workwomen place in their job (see picture above). Before the war they no doubt gained experience at home helping mother fold the sheets and towels. Now they are putting their former knowledge to better service, and after being trained thoroughly by experts have learned to fold these 'chutes for Canadian airmen and paratroopers.

Honor Mother Next Sunday With Some Token for Her Day

Mother Takes Her Place in Service on the Home Front

SUNDAY, May 9, is Mother's Day, when children old and young alike, will show consideration in one form or another for their mothers. Many mothers will be the recipients of some form of remembrance on this day which is especially theirs. In some cases this remembrance will take the form of a gift or greetings from afar, and in numerous homes it will be recognized as the time for a family reunion. The war has separated many families in the past three years, but it cannot break the bond between mother and children.

Mother's hair may be silver—or blonde, brown, black or Titian. She may be old, tiny and wrinkled with the years, or just out of her twenties. She may be very old fashioned, straight laced and clinging, or very modern, gay and independent. For there are just as many kinds of mothers as there are kinds of women. And for every hero on the fighting front, there's a mother on the home front, who in her own sweet way is the "bravest soldier of them all." For every hero in a war plant, too, there's a mother busy all day marketing, cooking, cleaning, washing, but not too busy to see that his sleep isn't disturbed by day, because he is on night shift, not too busy to give him a hearty meal whatever hour he gets home.

Remember mother next Sunday and give her something that will please her, something that she can wear, or use or keep, be it flowers, clothing or furnishings for the home. Be sure to honor her in some tangible way and show appreciation for her years of patient, loving care, sacrifice and wisdom.

DECLARES REPAYMENT

VANCOUVER, May 5 (CP).—Reno Gold Mines, Ltd., has declared a repayment from capital of 7 cents a share payable May 31 to shareholders of record May 15. In 1942 distribution of 20 cents a share was made and today's dispersal brings the total to 27 cents.

Early last year Reno decided to discontinue operation of its Salmo property. Sales of fixtures and equipment have been made with further disposal still to follow. The 7 cents dividend absorbs approximately $131,000.

Reno still holds a lease on Central Zeballos mine on Vancouver Island.

Ambulance drivers, rescue personnel and air raid wardens in Britain may soon spend their spare time doing anything from secret factory work to examining Bank of England notes to detect forgery. There is a scheme to enable full-time civil defence workers to volunteer for special war work.

Mother's Faith Is Unfailing . . Only Religious Faith Can Match It!

A MOTHER'S faith is loving and comforting . . . religious faith is guiding and consoling. In these days, when we need every bit of our physical and mental effort to speed victory, we should take refuge in the serene calm of the church, to ease our troubled minds. It is for the preservation of our freedom that we fight . . . the freedom to worship as we please . . . let us all show our appreciation of the rights we are so fortunate to enjoy by attending services regularly. Come to church with mother on Mother's Day and . . . make every Sunday church day.

That Body of Yours

TREATING ONE KIND OF HARD OF HEARING BY RADIUM

When any method of restoring or partly restoring hearing to the hard of hearing is announced, thousands of afflicted individuals are naturally interested and anxious to obtain the treatment. However, loss of hearing is not due to any one cause and a form of treatment helpful in one case would be of no help in another.

One of the common causes of loss of hearing is a partial closure of the opening of eustachian tube carrying air from the throat to the middle ear. Enlarged tonsils and the formation of soft, jellylike tissue (adenoids) is often the cause of closing the opening of the eustachian tube. By removing the enlarged tonsils and adenoids from about this opening, hearing is often restored.

However where there is a persistent growth of this soft adenoid tissue about this opening, and operation is not possible, the use of radium is giving excellent results. I have mentioned this method of treatment before. There is now further information at hand.

In Archives of Otolaryngology (ear, nose and throat), Drs. Ernest B. Emerson, Jr., Andrew H. Dowdy and Clyde A. Heatley report that treatment by radium of deafness due to growth of adenoid tissue yields excellent results. They describe the simple instruments used to place the radium in the exact position necessary to shrink or remove this adenoid or lymphoid tissue.

Before applying the radium treatment all disease present such as infected tonsils or adenoids is removed. Then by means of a local anaesthetic the condition of the opening of the eustachian tube is learned. If there is a great amount of this lymphoid tissue about the eustachian tube or if the opening seems swollen, the patient is given the radium treatment—irradiation.

A twelve-minute application of a definite dose of radium is made which is usually sufficient to cause the shrinking of the swollen tissue. Two weeks after this treatment the patient is re-examined to discover amount of shrinking that has occurred. The hearing is checked at the end of a month and again in six months.

In the majority of cases the tube appears normal in two to four weeks and hearing is normal or nearly normal. Some will need further radium treatment, usually not earlier than three months after the first treatment.

Remember, this radium treatment is only for the kind of deafness caused by growth of soft tissue about the eustachian tube.

A person's mouth is about the same width as his eyes.

Net C.P.R. Income Unlikely to Vary From 1942 Level

MONTREAL, May 5 (CP).—Net income was not likely to vary substantially from the level of 1942 in the present year, D. C. Coleman told shareholders today in his presidential address at the annual meeting of Canadian Pacific Railway Company.

Mr. Coleman said gross earnings in the first quarter of 1943 increased $5,600,000 and working expenses increased by $6,900,000. Net earnings showed a decrease of $1,300,000.

In particular, Mr. Coleman reported, working expenses in the period were affected by unusually severe weather, which added greatly to the difficulties of transportation. Heavy snowfalls and sleet burdened maintenance operations and the increased cost of snow and ice removal amounted to $1,300,000.

A large part of increased gross earnings, Mr. Coleman indicated, would be offset by heavier taxes, maintenance and other expenses.

Reviewing financial developments of the company, Mr. Coleman said that all expenditures on capital account in 1942 were met without issue of new securities and bonds, notes and other obligations to the amount of $35,447,000 were retired without refunding.

PAYMENT OF DIVIDEND TO BE UNDER REVIEW

After reiterating reasons given for the decision of the directors not to pay a dividend in 1942 on the common stock, Mr. Coleman promised that the question would be reviewed after the result of 1943 operations was available.

A committee of senior officers is engaged in preparing a postwar programme of rehabilitation and improvement of the company's properties, Mr. Coleman said.

Mr. Coleman said that the company's postwar programme could be carried out as might be required in order to make use of surplus labor for undertakings that would increase earnings power and service to the nation. The programme would include urgent projects which could be undertaken advantageously as soon as labor and materials were available.

One of the main tasks, Mr. Coleman explained, would be restoration of the company's steamship fleet. An experienced officer, stationed in London, was engaged in a careful study of conditions and prospects so that, as early as possible, the trade routes might be adequately provided with types of vessels best calculated to meet requirements.

He used some of his prize money—$50 worth—to participate in Canada's Fourth Victory Loan.

VICTIMS OF MALARIA

OTTAWA, May 5 (CP).—R.C.A.F. Headquarters said today five Canadian members of an R.A.F. squadron in Malta fell victim to malaria while serving in Nigeria previously. Now recovered and on duty in Malta, one of the five is P.O. Ben Lawson, Vancouver, observer.

TO FORM CREDIT UNION

At a meeting of the directors of the National Defence Civil Employees' Association on Monday, under the chairmanship of J. J. Comerford, many important matters were discussed concerning civil servants, one of them being the formation of a credit union for all dockyard employees.

Walter Benson, J. Thomas and J. S. H. Notley were appointed as a committee to commence organization at once.

Victoria Merchants Have Suitable Gifts For Mother's Day

MAKE Sunday a gay day for Mother by doing something really thoughtful, whether you give her a gift that will save her effort, or give her something just a little extravagant—or "bright." Local merchants have been serving Mother for years—and in these columns they tell you some of the ways she would love to be remembered.

Mother's Day Celebration Is Ancient Rite

Mother's Day, contrary to popular belief, is not a modern idea. Its beginning dips into antiquity, and in spite of the fact that in Indianapolis there is a tablet to the man who originated the celebration in its present form, historical records show that "Mothering" Sunday is an ancient, established festival in the British Isles. Nobody is credited there with having originated the idea. Like Topsy it just grew. Since the beginning of time, mid-Lent Sunday has popularly been called "Mothering" Sunday, and there are many customs which have grown around it, which also have legendary foundations.

Remove Tax to Push Building Of Fish Ships

OTTAWA, May 5 (CP)—With the aim of encouraging the building of fishing vessels for the Pacific and Atlantic Coasts, the Government has removed the 10 per cent war exchange tax from imported articles and materials to be used in construction of such boats, it was disclosed today through publication of an order in council in Canadian War Orders and Regulations.

Previously builders of vessels of the packer-seiner type on the Pacific Coast and dragger type on the Atlantic Coast were granted a subsidy of $165 a gross ton. The Department of Fisheries reported to the Cabinet that no firm on the Atlantic Coast had taken advantage of this assistance, although some boats were built on the West Coast.

An official of the department said today that it is hoped removal of the war exchange tax will give further encouragement to construction.

Building of dragger-type fishing vessels on the Atlantic Coast "will increase the effectiveness of the present available manpower in the fishing industry," he said.

PROGRAMME PLANNED

"Guernsey at War" and other films showing English countryside scenes and an entertaining programme, will be presented on May 18 at the Foresters' Hall by British Columbia Channel Islands Society, Victoria branch. It was announced at a meeting of the executive committee held last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Whittle, 1731 Haultain Street, with Mr. E. M. Renouf in the chair.

What Today Means

TAURUS

If May 6 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date will be from 10:45 a.m. to 12:45 p.m., from 2:45 to 4:45 p.m. and from 8:45 to 10:45 p.m. The danger periods will be from 8:45 to 10:45 a.m., from 6:45 to 8:45 p.m. and from 10:45 p.m. until midnight.

One of the greatest mistakes anyone can make on May 6 will be to give a limp, wishy-washy handshake. You do not have to make your hand a painful vise to have it firm enough to indicate there is some strength of character and sincerity back of its clasp. The greetings you extend to those whom you contact may be an indication to them of your feelings, so make yours express cordiality. If you will give other people credit for knowing as much as you know, you will avoid making the mistake of underrating their intelligence and in a battle of wits may find it easier to hold your own. No sacrifice should be too great for married, engaged and courting couples to make, if it will add to the happiness of those whose birthday anniversaries fall on this date.

If you are a woman and May 6 is your birthday, your mental attitude will have a great deal to do with the degree of popularity or unpopularity you experience. With the right outlook on life and a sustained faith in human nature, you will find life well worth living and the average person worth knowing. An oppressive amount of dignity is just as bad as a total lack of it, so do not be an extremist whenever you feel that yours is involved. As a teacher, professional entertainer, news reporter, fiction writer, office or business manager, government employee, broker, or as a participant in our country's war effort, your work should receive flattering recognition. Follow the dictates of your heart and conscience if you wish your marriage to be a success.

The child born on May 6 should be encouraged to mix freely with youngsters his own age and be made to feel that his playmates always are welcome in his home. Quick to discern between what constitutes right and wrong, the Taurus child seldom involves himself in serious trouble and often keeps his companions out of it. Successful careers generally result from his mature efforts.

If you are a man and May 6 is your natal day, you should make every effort to gain an unlimited vocabulary, for it will prove to be an invaluable asset. Much may depend on your power of self-expression, so give it serious consideration. Your efforts in theology, law, medicine, scientific research, exploration, literary work, journalism, selling, business management or in military activity, may enable you to become prosperous, widely known and very popular.

BALTIMORE, May 5 (AP).—Askmenow, the juvenile filly queen of [illegible] carried the navy blue and white colors of Hal Price Headley to victory in the $10,000 Added Pimlico Oaks before a crowd estimated at 12,000 persons at Pimlico race course today.

Ridden by Carroll Bieran, the brown daughter of Menow, ran the mile and one-sixteenth in 1:45 4-5 and won a purse totaling $10,225 to run her total earnings to $49,985.

She and Who Me were favored in the wagering, and the entry returned $6.60, $4.30 and $3.00 for a $2 ticket.

The above map gives some indication of the ease with which a continuous umbrella of aircraft could be maintained over a very long section of the French coast. This is requisite to success in making an attack over water. The protection of ships, assault craft and tank-landing craft from attack by air or torpedo boats is the main problem, and this can only be done by aircraft flying in continuous waves over the vessels as they approach the hostile shore.

PETER RABBIT THINKS THIS IS A FUNNY WORLD

"This is a funny world, a funny world," said Peter Rabbit as he hopped along lippety-lippety-lip, to pay his respects to his friends and neighbors and at the same time try to learn some news. "Yes, sir, it is a funny world. Here it is the finest weather in the whole year and nobody seems to know how to make the most of it except me. These cool days make a fellow feel good all over!" Peter jumped up in the air and kicked his long heels together. Then he tried to see how far he could jump. After that he ran a race with his own shadow and almost bumped into Johnny Chuck, who was sitting on his doorstep in the far corner of the Old Orchard.

"Isn't this great weather, Johnny?" cried Peter, jumping as high as he could and trying to turn around before he reached the ground again.

Johnny Chuck yawned and rubbed his eyes sleepily. Then he shivered a little, and this made Peter open his eyes, for Johnny was so fat that Peter couldn't understand how it was possible for him to be cold. He was just opening his mouth to say so when Johnny spoke.

"It's very, very sleepy weather. I think I shall turn in for the Winter in a day or so," said Johnny, and yawned again.

"Sleepy weather! Sleepy weather!" Peter fairly snorted. "Why what are you talking about, Johnny Chuck? And what's this about turning in for the Winter?"

And then there flashed into Peter's mind the memory of how Johnny Chuck had gone to sleep just about this time the year before and had slept all Winter long. It had puzzled him then, and it puzzled him just as much now. He looked hard at Johnny Chuck. Johnny's eyes were half closed. Peter couldn't quite make up his mind whether it was sleep that was the cause or because Johnny was so fat that he couldn't open them any wider.

"I guess it's both," thought Peter.

Just then who should come racing along the old stone wall but Chatterer the Red Squirrel. Chatterer's cheeks stuck out so that his head looked as twice as big as it really is. He looked for all the world as if he had the mumps on both sides or else the very worse kind of a toothache. But Peter knew that it was neither. Chatterer had his cheeks stuffed full of nuts which he was taking to one of his store houses. He whisked past with just a flirt of his tail when Peter called to him. Peter watched him out of sight. Then he turned to speak to Johnny Chuck. Johnny was not to be seen. He had gone into his house. Peter wondered if he had gone down to sleep for the Winter.

"Sleepy weather! Sleepy weather!" Peter fairly snorted. "Why, what are you talking about, Johnny Chuck?"

He was still wondering when back came Chatterer, racing along as if his life depended on the speed of his legs. "What's your hurry?" demanded Peter. "Stop and have some fun. It's great weather to have fun!"

"You mean it's great weather to work," shouted Chatterer over his shoulder. "Finest weather to work I ever knew. Got to make the most of it. Yes, sir, got to make the most of it!" With that he was off and Peter was once more alone.

Rather thoughtfully he started for the Green Forest. There he found Happy Jack Squirrel working quite as hard as was Chatterer. Peter wanted some one to play with, and so he started for the Green Meadows. Danny Meadow Mouse and Nanny Meadow Mouse were both so busy that they could hardly say a word. Presently he came to the home of Digger the Badger. Digger wasn't busy, but, alas!—he was just as sleepy as Johnny Chuck.

"A funny world! A funny world!" muttered Peter as he headed toward the smiling pool. "Greatest weather in the whole year for play, and yet everybody is either too busy or too sleepy."

Sports Snapshots

Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, May 5 (CP).—The newly-organized All-American Girls' Professional Softball League, operating in Chicago, is playing havoc with some Canadian teams. Outstanding Toronto players have been signed and a scout is touring the Prairies.

Latest Toronto girl to sign is Thelma Golden, strike-out queen of Sunnyside pitchers. Bobbie Rosenfeld, of The Toronto Globe and Mail, says Thelma signed for a sackful—$100 a week. Gladys Davis and Helen Sandiford, of Toronto, signed previously.

Western reports say May Baker, Doris Barr and Millie Warwick, of Regina Bombers, have taken the jump to the Chicago circuit. Others expected to try out include Helen Nicol, twenty-three-year-old Edmonton pitcher; Mrs. Olive Little, Ethel McCreary, Kay Bennett, Dorothy Hunter, Lucella MacLean and Muriel Caben.

ROUND AND ABOUT

Frank Colman, the London, Ont., boy currently playing right field for Pittsburgh Pirates in the National Baseball League, is one of five brothers, all of whom once played for the same team in London . . . Four members of the Timmins Hollman Pluggers, Ontario juvenile hockey champions, are slated for professional trials next Fall—Allen Stanley and Pete Babando with Boston Bruins and Eric Prentice and George DePelice with Buffalo Bisons.

Death of George Pringle, former University of British Columbia basketball star, with the R.C.A.F. overseas, inspired his friends to establish the George Pringle Memorial Bursary Fund. The goal is $6,500 and already $5,577 has been contributed. A $200 bursary will be awarded at U.B.C. this year.

Paul Dean Is Coming Back

Flashes Form For St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, May 5 (AP).—The box score of the Detroit Tigers-St. Louis Browns' series opener hints at the drama of a former star pitcher starting a comeback attempt against the team he beat twice in the memorable world series of 1934.

In cold print, it listed "Dean" as a pitcher for the Browns—a terse identification of the once great Paul Dean, who paired with brother Dizzy to reach baseball fame in the gas-house days of St. Louis Cardinals. In the 1934 world series against Detroit, "me 'n' Paul" each won two games after pitching a total of forty-nine victories during the regular season.

Arm trouble forced Paul out of the major league and he tried without success to return with the Cardinals and then with New York Giants before the Browns bought him from Houston, via Washington, this Winter.

Making his first appearance with the Browns yesterday, he allowed only one hit in four and one-third innings of relief pitching, getting the mighty Rudy York twice with two men on base.

Although his arm has lost its power to fog the ball across the plate, Dean displayed what Manager Luke Sewell called "deceptive speed." He showed a fine curve and perfect control, bearing out Texas League reports that he now was pitching "with his head as well as his arm."

B.C. Men With New Arrivals

LONDON, May 5 (CP).—Arrival in Britain of a draft of reinforcements for the R.C.A.F. overseas was disclosed today.

The airmen, representing nearly every corner of Canada, included pilots, observers, navigators, bomb-aimers, gunners, wireless-air gunners and radio mechanics.

As the air crews piled out of their ships they were unanimous in naming Berlin as the place they would like to attack first when they are posted to operational duties.

Senior officer with the arrivals was Wing Commander G. R. F. Gross, Toronto, chief instructor of No. 8 Bombing and Gunnery School at Lethbridge, Alta.

F/O. A. Aylesworth, Napanee, Ont., seemed to be the most anxious "to beat Hitler in a hurry and get back home." That was because two days before he sailed from an Eastern Canadian port he learned his wife had given birth to a baby at Prince Rupert, B.C.

P/O. Bill Hobson, Kelowna, B.C., is making his second trip to Britain with the R.C.A.F. The first time he came as an accountant, but he obtained a transfer to air crew so he could "hit Jerry the hard way."

Jesse Flores Sensation

Mexican Hurler Has the Stuff

PHILADELPHIA, May 5 (AP).—A Mexican bull-fighting fan who never saw a major league ball game until April 20 is the pitching sensation of the infant season in Philadelphia.

Jesse Sandoval Flores, up from Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast League, is "wowing" 'em for Connie Mack's Athletics with a screwball that baffles the best and control that veterans are calling uncanny.

The A's hired Flores on trial after Chicago Cubs had rejected him, and Connie wasn't optimistic.

But in thirty-four innings, Jesse has allowed only three runs—two actually earned—and only thirteen hits. He's outpitched such veterans as Tex Hughson, twenty-two-game winner last year with Boston Red Sox, and Thornton Lee, peer of the league's knuckleball hurlers. He's won two and lost one—the latter 1-0 to Boston although he easily was the best pitcher on the field.

First Baseman Dick Siebert, a veteran of the majors, says, "I've never seen a youngster break in with such stuff and poise—standing out there watching him you'd think he'd been pitching in the big leagues for years."

Jesse is from Guadalajara, Jalisco, Mexico, where bull-fighting is the No. 1 sport.

NORM BAKER SETS SCORING RECORD AS FLYERS WIN

Glancing Over Sport—

By JOE DELAHUNTY

BAKER HITS THE JACKPOT

Victoria's sniping blond went on a scoring rampage last night at the expense of the Windsor basketball team and when he finished his "thender" he had hung up a new record for the boys to write into the books. We are referring to the sensational performance turned in by Norm Baker who fired them through the eastern champions hoop at nearly a point a minute pace for a total of thirty-seven points. He smashed the record established just a year ago by another Victoria sharpshooter who answers to the name of Art Chapman. The flashy Baker was as "hot" as any cager would want to be in such an important series and despite the fact Windsor tried every possible way to halt the blond thunderbolt they couldn't find a method which would work.

When the Dominoes were on their way to the national title in 1942 which they finally won at Montreal Chapman hit the twine for twenty-eight points one night in Winnipeg but even that great performance was overshadowed by a greater display last night when Baker swung into action seconds after the opening whistle and kept right on firing away until the final gong.

Victoria will have their hands full with this Windsor club for they gave a good account of themselves in the opener considering the fact that they just stepped off the train yesterday morning and none of them had ever seen the gym before. The Ontario lads set the pace for three quarters of the time and if it hadn't been for Baker keeping the airmen's hopes flying it might have been a different story at the finish.

THE TRUTH ABOUT THE RAZOR BLADE SITUATION

A Frank Statement By Gillette Safety Razor Co. of Canada, Limited

CONFLICTING and unfounded reports about the razor blade situation prompt us to make this positive statement—

There should be razor blades for everybody provided everyone buys sparingly and gets every possible shave out of every blade.

It is true that today manufacture of razor blades for civilian use is regulated. No loyal Canadian would have it otherwise. And this company gladly complies with the program established by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board Administrator to conserve steel and labor.

The quota set up by the Administrator was arrived at after careful study, and the available supply of razor blades is intended to take care of civilian needs without working a hardship on anyone.

Despite this you may have found an occasional merchant out of stock when you asked for Blue Gillette Blades. Here are the reasons for this . . . First . . . the Blue Gillette has grown in popularity year after year and today demand is greater than ever. Second . . . some men are hoarding. Storing away even an extra package or two by every shaver in the Dominion could cause an acute shortage. Third . . . many men continue their peacetime practice of not concerning themselves with the number of shaves per blade. These days demand that men obtain maximum service from each blade. Fourth . . . Large orders from the armed forces tax our capacity. These requirements do not come out of our civilian quota, but do take priority on delivery.

Combine these four reasons and you know why from time to time certain dealers may be out of stock. We assure you that this condition is only temporary and should mean at worst merely a brief delay.

But you can help avoid this slight inconvenience. When buying Blue Gillette Blades . . . do so sparingly . . . just one package at a time. Then use each blade thriftily . . . make every blade deliver the maximum number of satisfactory shaves. And when you key your blade consumption to the times you share the comfort and economy of Blue Gillette Blades with your friends and your neighbours. That's the sporting thing to do. It's the Canadian way.

Food Conservation

Your food saving starts with spending your food dollar . . . planning purchases before making them, and buying all perishable products in the exact quantities you need. Of course, left-overs occur occasionally, when some member of your family misses a meal, but as a smart housekeeper, you will regard those as windfalls to use in the next nourishing dish you will serve.

Much food waste in the home is due to poor storage care. There's a right and a wrong way to store each kind of food. Some foods go in the cupboard, in tightly covered pestproof cans or jars . . . dry staples and crackers for example. Others need ventilated containers, especially bread and cake. These containers, by the way, need scalding, sunning and airing at least once every week.

Transfer Order Will Not Affect Victoria Greatly

Women Staff Many Non-Essential Jobs

Victoria business firms will be little affected by the Dominion Government's new order requiring registration of single men between the ages of nineteen and forty, and married men between the ages of nineteen and twenty-five, for possible transfer to essential industries, it was learned during a survey made yesterday.

Men within the age categories, now engaged in low priority occupations, are required to register at their nearest National Selective Service office before May 10, and must obtain a special permit to continue in non-essential industries, if they are not transferred.

Several local service stations employ young men who will be subject to transfer, but many will probably be exempt since they are doing essential repair work on buses and army trucks and other necessary vehicles.

Two small firms reported that they will shut down, one of them has been expecting such an order and the two men employed have prepared for it by studying with a view to working in shipyards. The manager of the second firm, said: "We haven't been doing very much lately anyway—it's getting monotonous."

The assistant of one large automobile firm will be short two and possibly three men, which will seriously affect their business since these men have established contacts that are hard to build up, the manager said.

EXPECT TO LOSE BELL-BOYS

Hotels employing bell-boys expect to lose them and one well-known hostelry is considering suspending such service. Another may replace the boys with girls but the manager hopes this will not be necessary, as he considers the work unsuitable to girls.

Taxi companies report that the new order will not affect them very much, though some companies will have to take on more women drivers.

Theatres are not alarmed by the order since they are staffed chiefly by older men and by women, the younger men they formerly employed have enlisted.

Newsstands and small confectionery shops expect to carry on, though there is the odd news dealer on the outskirts of the city who thinks he will be forced out of business.

Men affected by the order have already begun to register with the Victoria office of the National Selective Service, according to C. A. Mudge, manager.

Last week 1,500 men were needed to fill jobs mostly in shipyards and on construction operations, he said.

"We will have a clearer picture of the situation in a few days' time," he stated.

Free Tag Day On Saturday To Further Loan

The first free tag day in Canada will be held in Victoria on Saturday as part of the community's campaign for the Fourth Victory Loan.

The tags will bear the slogan Buy Bonds. Beat Halifax and citizens are asked to wear the tags all through the balance of the campaign as a reminder to themselves and their neighbors of the city's goal to beat the Maritimes communities in the city's to their respective quotas today.

Yesterday Greater Halifax was reported to have raised $1,500,000 with a total of $4,519,300, and the free tag day is one of several plans instigated by Victoria sponsors of the war codes to stimulate interest and community pride in Pacific Coast city.

The tags will be distributed at all downtown corners between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. Saturday by 140 high school girls, most of them from Saanich and Esquimalt, their services being made possible by courtesy of John Gough, municipal inspector of schools for Saanich and Cole Kenyon, principal of Esquimalt High School.

The tags will bear a facsimile of white silk inscribed "Free Tag Day," and the only respect in which they will differ from normal tag sellers will be in the absence of collection boxes.

Other plans made by the National War Finance Committee involve cooperation of city service clubs throughout the whole of next week, which will close the campaign. Announcement of the nature and extent of the co-operation will be made later.

Oak Bay Council Making Survey Of Fuel Needs

Residents of Oak Bay will be asked to co-operate with the municipality in regard to the fuel situation by leaving at the Municipal Hall a list of their minimum requirements of cordwood, sawn stove wood and [illegible] for the winter of 1943.

The request is being made through a circular signed by Reeve W. D. Woodhouse, which will be distributed to all homes in the municipality.

It is pointed out that after a survey of local sources such as beach wood and the last remaining stand of timber in Oak Bay on the Hudson's Bay Company lands, it was found wood of suitable quality was scarce.

"The council cannot in any way guarantee delivery of fuel to the residents, but it is prepared to investigate each individual application filed at the Municipal Hall," the circular states. "If it is found that the applicant has practically no wood after having made every effort to obtain it through the normal channels and that it is impracticable for him to use other kinds of fuel, the council will forward the application for wood to a fuel dealer with a statement that the case has been investigated by municipal officials and that an emergency exists which in the council's opinion should receive priority. The dealers have agreed to co-operate in this matter, so far as their supplies permit, but they then reserve the right to refuse orders."

Hereto the council names the following requests of the residents:

To burn wood only when it is impracticable to burn coal, since coal is more readily obtainable at present.

To place orders for wood [illegible] with the municipality [illegible] which will receive the co-operation and to give the desired information regarding fuel requirements to the council before May 31.

"Dina Cashman"

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

CHAPTER XXI

That there is no use my going and the girl is not to come—" Her voice thickened

East, Dina said steadily.

"That's his mother," Rogers observed after a minute.

"His mother was there. I wrote him at Christmas time that I—that I was afraid. They went East, he and she, and he's written me now that I'm just imagining things—not to come."

"Did he say so?"

"Yes. He wrote that he was sorry I was bothered and that his mother was sure I was mistaken," Dina said in a level voice devoid of feeling.

"That sounds like Caroline," the man said almost with triumph. "That's Caroline. What else?"

"That his father might take him to South America and that I wasn't to worry." The girl finished the statement quietly and sat staring ahead of her like a person in a dream.

"As a matter of fact you're not mistaken?" Rogers asked.

"No."

"You seem to take this very quietly, my dear."

Her eyes moved to his, and he saw that they were no longer a child's eyes; they were infinitely grave.

"I have to," she said. "I think I've known from the beginning that it would be this way. Not—not that Sunday that we came down from Paradise Valley and we talked all the way. But since. Ever since. "I know that it was just liking a girl—having a crush on her, to him, and that it's something that will stay with me all my life. A human being that I'm responsible for. And I'm going to be responsible for it." Dina went on in a firmer voice.

"I don't know just how I'll start, but once I get started I'll be all right. I'll have to go away from home; I won't see my sisters and brothers any more. But that's what happens to girls like me."

"A boy, unfortunately," Rogers said slowly, "feels that he is very lucky if he can get out by a predicament like this. He's only too willing to forget it, to believe that it isn't serious. That's what girls don't know."

"Girls do know. They know," Dina said.

"I can only say that I think you're damn spirited and plucky," the man observed. Dina moved heavy eyes to his.

"I have to be," she answered. "I would like to get out of it, too, if I could. I've always thought myself—I've always been—I've never been the sort——" Her voice thickened

"I believe you," Rogers said. "And you're how old? Nineteen? Well, keep your chin up; here comes the vanguard!"

There was a stir of laughter and voices in the hall. Hins began to show in the guests; five of them, and then two, and two, and three, and four.

They came in cold and gay and noisy; two quite elderly men, two elderly wives, a pretty girl Dina's age and the rather uninteresting looking young man she was going to marry, a younger couple, a countess who spoke broken English, a man who had evidently won some sort of tournament and who was under a constant fire of congratulations.

Last of all, when everyone else had had cocktails and canapes and had settled into groups, the Andrew Havenses came. The man looked the artist, the hair on his handsome blond head just a trifle long, his evening clothes just a trifle baggy. He was a tall man with a pleasant laugh and a big firm jaw; his skin was browned, his hands long, fine, and nervous. He seemed quite at ease among all these strangers.

The woman; now for the third time receiving good wishes as a bride, and perhaps three or four years older than her new mate. At thirty-four she was at the peak of her beauty, and an exotic beauty it was.

Her hair was raven black, plastered tight to her head; the skin of her arms and throat and her proud, lovely face was all of a smooth, creamy texture; her lips were crimson and her eyes a strange dove blue, heavily lashed in black. The trailing gown she wore carried out a general impression of Oriental aristocracy; it was wrapped about her in a sheath of peacock-blue brocade patterned in darker blue, silver, and black, and clasped with glittering shields of jewels. In her ears she wore heavy pendants of pearls.

She came in with a royal effect of entrance, was instantly surrounded and kissed by the men and women alike, for all of them this was her first appearance since her runaway wedding.

"Is anyone speaking to me?" Dina heard her demand from the centre of the circle. "Billy—Olive—this is Andy Havens, and you'll all be pleased to like him very much and have your portraits painted by him next week!"

"Aline, you're more beautiful than ever!" a woman said.

"Happiness, darling, happiness! We're living on nothing, and my flushed little face will soon be bending over a dishpan, but I really do like the creature, and so I don't care!"

She was face to face with Rogers; she looked up boldly.

"Toppy, you've got to like my husband," she said.

"I've liked all your husbands, Aline," Rogers said in the silence, with a bow.

Dina saw the smooth alabaster of her face flush faintly; she came back at him promptly.

"Yes, and I thought for a while that I was going to like your second wife immensely! I mean me," Aline said.

There was a shocked little ripple of relished laughter from the circle that had more or less unconsciously grouped itself about the two.

"I never liked her, really," Rogers countered. And again there was a laugh.

"She wasn't very nice," Aline said with a dangerously quiet smile.

"I think everyone knew it but herself!" the man suggested sweetly. "You know how it is."

"Indeed I know how it is, Toppy," Aline finished the exchange on so significant a note that suddenly the laughter went out of it, and as she turned superbly away Dina knew that she had scored. Toppy! That had probably been her little pet name for him. Rogers might join in the laugh that greeted Aline's latest hit, but Dina saw the shadow that crossed his face.

"A Yank at Eton" To Open at York

Mickey Rooney proves again why he is Hollywood's number one star in "A Yank at Eton." The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer film opens today at the York Theatre.

As a typical American boy in England's most exclusive school, Mickey has some of the most hilarious scenes of his film career, and some of the most dramatic. He plays American football and English cricket. He runs a steeplechase. He leads twelve little Eton boys in a slapstick brawl with four husky waiters of a roadside inn. And he licks the Eton bully.

In short, there isn't much that Mickey doesn't do.

While Mickey is his usual brilliant self as "The Yank," Freddie Bartholomew, playing in his fifth picture with Rooney, also is outstanding.

Several newcomers also are exceptional, including Tina Thayer and Marta Linden.

Amusements

On the Screen

Atlas — Walter Pidgeon and Hedy Lamarr in "White Cargo."

Cadet—"Wings for the Eagle," starring Ann Sheridan and Dennis Morgan.

Capitol — "Random Harvest," starring Greer Garson and Ronald Colman.

Dominion—Lionel Barrymore, Ruth Hussey and Van Heflin in "Tennessee Johnson."

Oak Bay and Plaza — Joan Davis and Dick Foran in "He's My Guy."

Rio—Walter Pidgeon and Rita Johnson in "Nick Carter, Master Detective."

York—Mickey Rooney starred in "A Yank at Eton."

Jungle Drama to Appear at Atlas

Stark drama at a rubber station deep in the African jungles provides gripping entertainment in "White Cargo," with Hedy Lamarr, wearing a sarong for the first time, as the glamorous but sinister Tondelayo and Walter Pidgeon as the fighting plantation overseer Witzel, two of the most famous characters of stage drama. The picture comes today to the Atlas Theatre.

Basically it shows how white men succumb to the heat, primitive conditions and sinister mysticism of the dark continent. Pidgeon is a man who has conquered it, but others, as played by Bramwell Fletcher, cannot survive and must go back to civilization. Richard Carlson plays a young overseer who becomes enslaved by the charms of the dusky Tondelayo, precipitating a stark dramatic situation.

Musical Comedy Stars Joan Davis

The Mills Brothers, famed singing quartette and vocal tricksters, will be seen singing a pair of their most popular numbers in "He's My Guy," Universal's new comedy feature starring Joan Davis, which opens today at the Oak Bay and Plaza Theatres.

The boys sing "How Am I to Know," by Dorothy Parker and Jack King, and "Ciello Lindo," the latter being a special version arranged by the boys themselves.

"He's My Guy" is a topical comedy concerning vaudeville players who quit the stage to take jobs in a defence factory. Here they discover that the crying need of overworked steel mill employees is entertainment for their relaxation. So they stage a "Victory Vanities" which turns out to be a big variety show. It is in the tryouts for this show and in the show itself that the brothers sing their songs.

Detective Drama To Appear at Rio

Nick Carter, super-sleuth, who thrilled kids for half a century with his amazing detective exploits, is brought to the screen in all his exciting glory by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in "Nick Carter, Master Detective," starting today at the Rio. Played by Walter Pidgeon, the character comes to life as a two-fisted "deductor of crime."

M.-G.-M. has modernized the detective and in doing so has enhanced the excitement of his adventures. Using a secret airplane formula as the motivation, and involving international agents bent on obtaining the secrets to sell to foreign governments as invaluable weapons of war, the story sweeps through a series of exciting episodes that involves airplane factories and nerve-tingling encounters in the air, on land and on sea. Rita Johnson is co-starred with Pidgeon.

Aircraft Plant Is Scene of Cadet Film

A timely film, crammed with action, romance and excitement, opens today at the Cadet Theatre in Warner Bros.' "Wings for the Eagle." The picture features Ann Sheridan and Dennis Morgan in the top roles with an impressive supporting cast made up of Jack Carson, George Tobias and Russell Arms. The realistic setting is the huge Lockheed aircraft plant where the constant fight against time surpasses all personal conflict.

CAPITOL THEATRE The careers of Greer Garson and James Hilton have crossed again in their climb to fame. Hilton's "Good-Bye, Mr. Chips," in which Miss Garson won stardom, started their association. Now she is co-starring with Ronald Colman in another Hilton story, "Random Harvest." The M.-G.-M. picture is now showing at the Capitol Theatre.

DOMINION THEATRE Dealing with a critical period in American history, M.-G.-M.'s "Tennessee Johnson" is now showing at the Dominion Theatre. Starring Van Heflin and Lionel Barrymore, the highly dramatic subject presents the story based on the life of Andrew Johnson, Tennessee backwoodsman who overcame almost insurmountable difficulties to become President of the United States. Van Heflin has the title role with Lionel Barrymore as his political enemy.

Husbands May Sue For Alimony Under New Florida Law

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 5 (AP).—The Florida Senate passed today, fifty to five, a bill to give married women the right to manage their own property, but first amended it to give the husbands the right to sue for alimony.

The amendment also would give a husband "courtesy rights" corresponding to a widow's dower rights in property left by his wife.

The Righteous Indignation

By STEPHEN LEACOCK

THERE is, of course, a radio in Jeff's barber shop in Mariposa. But Jeff never feels very sure about turning it on. People are peculiar. It's all right if it's baseball or anything like that, but Jeff says customers are touchy. Why, he's known some people object even to the farm and produce prices—get right up out of the chair—think of that.

Of course the war is alright, that is, when it's really war news, but Jeff says customers are apt to get a little restless if it's just war talk. He says a lot of it sounds too much like religion. He admits that no doubt it's not meant that way, but customers resent it all the same.

So Jeff finds that the best plan is just to keep the radio going quietly so that in a way you hear it and yet it doesn't interrupt anybody. Jeff himself is fully satisfied with the result because no doubt being right there beside the chair, he can keep one ear each way. You have to, anyway, in running a barber shop.

But for people sitting round the shop it's different. It sounds like alternate talk, first this, then that, especially as the customers pay no attention to what is very often earnest pleading and butt right in on it. Perhaps the radio speakers have got into a set, stereotyped way that fails to carry conviction. That may be it. If so, the customers are not so wrong.

The talk runs something like this—"Surely we realize that in this great world struggle for freedom we ought to feel that no effort is too great."

"With a good push Toronto could move up into second place. That must be a dandy pitcher, that new feller they have."

"That's so."

"Is it not then our duty towards all that we cherish."

"How are the roads out past Medora?" "I didn't come that way. I went round by the third but they are not apt to be any too good this time of year. Of course with plenty of gravel."

"The Hun can be crushed, will be crushed. We must be strong and spare not till the whole foul brood of Nazism has been extirpated and then. . . ."

"Potatoes will be up to $4 for dead sure."

That's the way it generally went and we got used to it. But last Monday afternoon it was different. There were quite a few people in the barber shop and naturally they were talking about the loan and one fellow—I won't name him, but it was Pete McGaw—said he didn't see much profit in taking 3 per cent when a fellow could easy get six on a town mortgage. And he said he wasn't taking any of the loan. And quite a few fellers, it wouldn't be fair to give their names, Joe Ekers was one, spoke up and said they'd no idea of taking any.

You see it just happened that way. Fellers are like that. Now another day it might be just the other way.

Well, just then there was a man began to talk over the radio who could talk. Yes, sir. And he was talking of righteous indignation and when he spoke of it he sent a tingle through your blood and heroism to your heart. I don't know who he was. If you heard him you'll remember it was a voice with a strong Scottish accent and there was truth and power in every word.

"Don't be afraid to be angry, to be crazy angry, to be filled with righteous indignation. Nothing else has ever won a war. Nothing ever will, nothing but the flaming righteousness of the spirit that counts death as nothing."

The shop grew still and even Jeff stopped the clippers clipping.

The voice went on.

"All history shows it, the history of your country here and of mine at home. What but the power of the spirit, every animated the men of Scotland to stand firm to death at Culloden and wring victory from Waterloo. I tell you, strike these people down! Kill and spare not! Death is their portion!"

Sitting against the wall of the barber shop was a big crooked Highland man, too tall, as they all are, to sit properly anywhere and as he listened to the radio I could see his fingers buckle and clench and the fire flash in his blue eyes. This was Angus McCordell, the "crazy Highlander." We all knew him. Below the tamoshanter that he wore there was a deep mark furrowed along the side of his head. That was from the battle of the Somme and the two bent fingers of his left hand were from after he went back again, and the half limp in his leg from the third time. He had a blue eye and a clear face and a stubble beard, half red, half grey. He was twenty years old at the Somme. So that will give you his age.

That was Angus McCordell and he lived by himself out on the fifth concession and some people said he was crazy and some said half-crazy.

He was a wild man anyway. When he got angry nothing stopped him. He reached for his double-barrelled gun and started after somebody. There were car thieves around Mariposa one Summer, terrorizing the farms outside the town. Angus went after a gang of five. One he shot full of buckshot, and one dead. The rest got away in their car. There've been no car thieves round since.

Show Angus any wrong or cruelty and he'd flame up at once, and go for his gun and get after it. That was all right and no doubt made for righteousness. But at other times Angus would take fire at some purely imaginary idea in his crazy Highland head and come raging into town with his gun, looking for trouble. Then the chief of police, who was Scottish himself, would chase after Angus and drive him out home in his car. So that was why people said that Angus McCordell was crazy.

The radio appeal ended with a call to give, give, give, that those who held back were unworthy to be citizens.

As it ended, Angus jumped up from his seat, shaking his clenched hand.

"Yon's right," he said. "The man who won't give to this loan is unfit to walk the street. He's a damned German. He should be shot in his tracks."

And he stormed out of the shop.

"Who's that?" said an alarmed city customer, crawling out from under a Russian shampoo.

They all told him in a babble. He's gone for his gun, they said. He'll be back in an hour raging up and down Main Street, looking for a man who hasn't subscribed to the loan.

Peter McGaw was out first. They said he was over in the bank in two minutes, signing up for $500. Joe Ekers was right after him. He was saying to the tellers that it would be a good thing if every feller who subscribed to the loan could wear a white band, or something, on his arm so that people would know him on the street.

As the news about Angus went round town you could see men streaking from all directions to the banks. There were so many they had to wait in line.

Angus came sure enough, with his double-barrelled shotgun, raging up and down the Main Street. The chief of police refused to stop him. "He's done nothing," he said. "He's made no threat against any assignable person. He said he'll kill any Hitlerite in Mariposa. He's entitled to. He says he'll put a charge of buckshot in any Nazi who refuses to subscribe to the Victory Loan. He's within his rights."

The chief, as I said, was from the Highlands himself.

There was great relief that evening when Angus went off home. But it ended abruptly the next morning when he came back. In fact, things were worse. On the first day, to most people, it was no matter of personal alarm, indeed more or less a good joke on the slackers. But this next morning Angus was parading up and down the street in a sort of military fashion. He'd got a new idea. He was after the whole town now. He said that Mariposa had to raise its quota, that sum that it was pledged to raise. Raise that, he said, or he'd shoot up the whole street.

But the trouble is the quota was put too high; everybody knew that. You know Mariposa. It was just vain glory and civic pride. They never expected to raise it.

Angus is on the street right now. The chief of police won't interfere. He says, let them raise the quota.

Most of them think they will. In fact, they're all at one another to do it. Angus will see that they do.

Nothing like righteous indignation, is there?

How It Started----

"THERE ARE NO ATHEISTS IN FOXHOLES"

What words will survive our present travail, and endure, a hundred, nay, a thousand years from now, as alive, as gripping, as the day they were first uttered?

We believe it is the line, "There are no atheists in foxholes."

This affirmation, which circulated widely immediately after it was originally set down early last year, appears in the description of the Philippines against the Japanese, written by Lieut.-Col. Warren J. Clear, General Staff Corps, U.S.A., who participated in the action there.

"In this fighting," Col. Clear stated, "many a soldier came to realize that self-confidence alone was not enough to sustain the human spirit. I remember jumping into a hole during a particularly heavy bombing attack. A sergeant crouched lower to make room for me. Then all hell broke loose. I wasn't surprised to find myself praying out loud. I heard the sergeant praying, too. When the attack was over I said:

"'Sergeant, I noticed you were praying.'

"'Yes, sir,' he answered, without batting an eye, 'there are no atheists in foxholes.'"

TRAINING SCHOOL

EDMONTON, May 5 (CP).—A vocational training school for mechanic recruits joining the Canadian Active Army will be opened here May 19 and will have an instructional and administrative staff of 150, under command of Capt. J. L. Stone, military vocational training officer, now at M.D. 13 Headquarters, Calgary, it was learned today.

The bride-to-be was showing her friends a list of guests to be invited to the wedding.

After her friend had read the names she looked puzzled.

"What's the matter?" asked the bride-to-be.

"Isn't it rather strange?" queried the friend. "You have only put down the names of married couples."

"Yes, that was Jack's idea. Don't you think it's rather clever? He says that if we invite only married people the presents will be all clear profit."
